Israel Studies Much Disliked Peace Plan

U.S. Proposal Likely To Be Unacceptable

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli Cabinet met in special session today to discuss the U.S. peace proposal for Israel and Jordan and the strain it has put on Israel's relations with Washington.

The plan reportedly calls for Israeli withdrawal from most of the Jordan River's west bank territory captured in the 1967 war, and Israeli-Jordanian talks about the status of Jerusalem, which was unified as Israel's capital following the 1967 fighting.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban, returning home from Washington and London for the Cabinet meeting, said he had "very strong and sharp" talks with State Department officials in Washington. Political information. (Continued on Page 2)

Report Minor Viet Action As Christmas Truce Nears

Congress Pushes Christmas Recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott has reinforced President Nixon's threat to veto a budget-boosting appropriation for education and health spending, despite compromise reductions drafted as Congress pressed toward Christmas recess.

The vacation timetable was vague after a stormy Saturday session, but congressional leaders hoped to clear the docket and quit well before Christmas Eve.

Today's major item: The massive tax reform bill, with its provision for a gradual increase to $750 in the personal income tax exemption.

Senate Republicans and Democrats already had staged a political custody dispute over the bill. The taxpaying voters, said Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., can thank Democrats for the reductions offered by the measure.

"They cannot thank the Republican leadership which is attempting to steal away from the lowly senior senator from Tennessee credit which he does not claim," Gore told the Senate over the weekend.

Another key to a recess up before Congress today was a $267 million catch-all appropriation bill. This became the vehicle for a crucial resolution to keep unfunded government agencies in funds until Congress takes its vacation and returns to act on their appropriations.

As matters stand, that is likely to be the situation for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Department of Labor, and the Agency for International Development. The resolution continues spending authority through Jan. 30.

But another factor, the so-called Philadelphia plan for obtaining more construction job opportunities for black workers, had made the future of supplemental appropriations bill uncertain.

The Senate had attached a rider to the supplemental measure prohibiting the plan, which establishes quotas for blacks and other minority members to be hired on federally financed construction projects. (Continued on Page 15)

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. helicopter was shot down Sunday and U.S. paratroopers ambushed a North Vietnamese force in the third day of action in South Vietnam's northernmost province. Elsewhere, battlefield action was light as the Christmas cease-fires approached.

An American spokesman said enemy fire downed a UH1H Huey helicopter as it was landing 2 1/2 miles from the demilitarized zone Sunday to unload a 101st Airborne Division reconnaissance team. Eight Americans were killed and two wounded. The two injured men were taken out safely.

U.S. Air Force B52s bombed infiltration routes leading from Laos through the jungled mountains and foothills as intelligence indicated growing infiltration of North Vietnamese troops and supplies into the northwestern part of the country.

The bombers attacked base camps, bunkers and gun positions less than two miles from the Laotian border and 11 miles southeast of Khe Sanh, the U.S. Command said.

A second U.S. helicopter was shot down on a reconnaissance mission along the Cambodian border 73 miles northwest of Saigon. Three crewmen were wounded. This brought to 6,230 the total number of U.S. helicopters and planes reported lost in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961.

More than 40 enemy troops were reported killed in other small actions across the country. Fifteen of them died under a U.S. artillery bombardment 67 miles north of Saigon at Quan Loi, the U.S. Command reported, and 12 were killed by militiamen in southernmost An Xuyen Province, the Saigon government said.

Viet Plane Crash Kills At Least 30 At Nha Trang

NHA TRANG, Vietnam (AP) — A South Vietnamese airliner skidded off the end of the Nha Trang Air Base runway today, smashing into a schoolhouse and a cluster of sium houses.

Initial reports said 30 persons were killed. But the toll was expected to climb as rescue teams dug through the rubble of the homes and small school and the burned-out fuselage of the Air Vietnam DC6.

Police at the scene said of the 30 known dead, 21 had been on the ground and nine were aboard the aircraft. Twelve of the dead were believed to be schoolchildren.

A passenger list drawn up in Nha Trang indicated that there were no Americans aboard. The list showed two or three Indians, and all the rest were Vietnamese.

Twenty persons were injured, including two American soldiers who were in a Jeep that was hit by the plane as it slid across a road at the northwest end of the runway.

Two other soldiers in the Jeep escaped by leaping out. The vehicle was smashed over and turned into a charred wreck by the fire that followed.

The plane carried 63 passengers and a crew of seven, according to the steward. He said all of the crew members survived although the pilot was seriously injured, first by a mysterious explosion that occurred aboard the plane and possibly again in the crash.

He said the explosion apparently occurred in one of the jet-size engines as the aircraft, bound from Saigon to Da Nang via Nha Trang, was flying near Cam Ranh Bay, about 28 miles south of Nha Trang.

He said the pilot and a woman passenger were injured, apparently by flying metal from the engine, but the pilot managed to keep the plane airborne. The plane made a seemingly normal landing, but as it hit the runway, the brakes failed and it hurtled off the end of the strip, across the road and into the populated area.

The steward said he could offer no further explanation of the explosion. Officials also were puzzled by it. The DC6 was flying off the coast when it occurred, and this made it unlikely it had been hit by Viet Cong fire.

It was the third Air Vietnam flight to crash in the country this year. One of the airline's DC6s collided with a U.S. Air Force Phantom jet on approach to Da Nang Air Base last Sept. 20 and crashed, killing 77 persons. On April 2, a DC6 crashed on landing at Phu Bai airport, injuring five of the 81 persons aboard.

Union Oil Co. officials said Sunday that reactivation of their pumps Saturday apparently relieved the pressure and halted the heavy seepage.

Oil Slick Hits Beach

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Globes of oil from a slick fed by undersea seepage washed onto about 10 miles of scenic coastline today.

First reports listed about a half-dozen sea birds killed and more than 200 others floundering, helplessly, their feathers matted with the tar-like goo.

Volunteers manned a bird-cleaning station reactivated for the first time since an underwater oil blowout last winter in the same Santa Barbara Channel area spread slick over 800 miles of the Pacific.

Geologists say the new slick was touched off after pumps at offshore oil drilling platforms were shut down from Tuesday to Saturday while workers repaired a broken pipeline. Pressure apparently built up in the oil pools below the ocean floor, they said, causing oil to seep out of sea-bottom fissures considerably faster than the usual 250-gallon-a-day rate geologists estimate. Because of foggy weather there was no estimate of the size of the slick.

Union Oil Co. officials said Sunday that reactivation of their pumps Saturday apparently relieved the pressure and halted the heavy seepage.

Hunting Mishap Fatal

'Shell Game' In Stocks Hit By SEC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government plans to order a halt to trading in stocks of seven firms in a mounting Securities and Exchange Commission crackdown on a corporate version of the old shell game.

The SEC order was expected today along with requests for court injunctions against five companies and 13 individuals allegedly working as a group to sell stock in the seven corporations. The orders reportedly will be sought in California.

The shell game, as it is known in the securities trade, involves sale of inflated, if not worthless, stock in the refurbished shells of defunct corporations.

Operators of the game will pick up a corporate shell with no operations, no management, relatively few assets and no income. With the apparently unwitting help of over-the-counter brokers, they offer stock issues to the public at artificially high prices.

The SEC has more than doubled the number of orders against shell game operators this year, from 15 in 1968 to 35, and Commissioner Hugh Owens says organized crime may be involved in some operations.

"This is one of the products of an affluent society, which provides a fertile field for the schemer and the white-collar crook," Owens said.

Despite the SEC's drive against shell game operators, there is little policing of the market in which they apparently now flourish. The over-the-counter market lacks the stringent rules of an organized exchange. And, because the shares usually were registered and issued years ago, SEC registration and disclosures rules are bypassed.

President Plans Talk On Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plans to address the nation Tuesday with a message outlining American space goals in the decade ahead.

No time was set for the address. The President has not indicated what the message may contain, although a special panel headed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has recommended three alternatives—including that would put Americans on Mars in the 1980's.

Nasty Weather Rule Of Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Wet nasty weather was the rule as the second day of winter dawned across the nation.

The precipitation ranged from snow in the Great Lakes area and sleet and freezing rain in the Central Appalachians to heavy rains and thunderstorms in the Southeast.

Low pressure in the West brought rain and snow in the higher elevations and some freezing rain and sleet from Nevada to Montana and the Dakotas.

High winds with gusts of more than 60 miles an hour buffeted the western portion of Colorado. Boulder reported one brief gust of 105 miles per hour. No injuries have been reported but windows were broken.

Little relief was immediately in sight as travelers warnings and heavy snow warnings were in effect for a 12-state area from Pennsylvania and New York southward to Alabama and South Carolina.

Gale warnings were also on tap for the New England coast. One to three inches of snow had already fallen by early morning in a region from the lower Great Lakes across the Ohio Valley into the Appalachians.

The only clear and dry weather was confined to an area extending from the Southwest into the North Central states.

Predawn temperatures ranged from 13 below at International Falls, Minn., to 77 at Key West Fla., Naval Air Station.

Flu Epidemic Kills Many

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP) — The worst epidemic in Australian New Guinea's history is over, after the death of hundreds of village men, women and children.

The epidemic of Hong Kong virus A2 flu cut a swath through the central highlands, the home of nearly one million people. Pneumonia developed in many cases.

Nobody will ever know the actual death toll. New Guinea is rugged and the village people are scattered.

The director of public health, Dr. Ray F. R. Scragg, says the known toll is "something more than 2,000."

The epidemic apparently began in September.

Sweeping Tax Reform Bill Moves Nearer Final Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The most sweeping tax reform bill of modern times moved closer today to its final test in Congress with GOP leaders saying chances have improved for presidential approval.

The ultimate effect of the bill's provisions would cut income taxes of some Americans by $9.1 billion while raising them $6.6 billion for others by closing or narrowing loopholes.

A compromise version of the bill increasing Social Security benefits by 15 per cent, as the compromise measure does, and upping the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $800, as the Senate's version did, the compromise bill, however, limits the exemption increase to $750 in steps over a three-year period.

Republican congressional leaders who met with Nixon Saturday seemed cautiously optimistic the compromise version would receive the President's approval.

Completion of action on the bill in both houses without a hitch is the key to congressional adjournment for a Christmas recess, which was delayed when the conference committee that worked out the compromise could not finish its work until late last week. The massive tax reform-relief bill goes beyond the revisions made by Congress during the Kennedy administration early in the 1960s. The last such sweeping revision came more than a generation ago.

While the tax relief provisions will not become fully effective until 1973, the 15 per cent rise in Social Security benefits, plus a new $100 monthly minimum payment, is to take effect Jan. 1.

Nixon has asked Congress for a 10 per cent increase in Social Security benefits to take effect later in the year.

The compromise tax bill would reduce the oil and gas depletion allowance from 27 1/2 per cent to 22 per cent and extend the income tax surcharge at a 5 per cent rate through June 30.

Congress earlier extended the surcharge, enacted at 10 per cent under the Johnson administration, through the end of this year.

There is one vacancy on the nine-member court. At least three women are reported to be among the many persons being considered.

All congresswomen agreed with Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., that a woman should be selected only if she was the best qualified person the President could find and not just because she was a woman. Mrs. May said President Nixon has said he hoped a woman could be selected sometime while he is in office.

"It would be good to have a woman's viewpoint on the bench and to give further recognition to the fact that we realize women have ability," said Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., the only Negro congresswoman.

Woman Solons Want Female Justice On Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 10 lady members of the House say its high time a woman is named to the Supreme Court, and they think the first female justice could very well come from their own ranks.

"I think it would be great. There's no more reason not to nominate a woman than not to nominate a man," said Rep. Julia Butler Hansen, D-Wash.

"It's not an outlandish idea. Women are the one minority group that it is still considered fashionable to discriminate against," said Rep. Margaret M. Heckler, R-Mass.

Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., agreed. "I hope the day is not far off when the American people

Volunteers manned a bird-cleaning station reactivated for the first time since an underwater oil blowout last winter in the same Santa Barbara Channel area spread slick over 800 miles of the Pacific.

Geologists say the new slick was touched off after pumps at offshore oil drilling platforms were shut down from Tuesday to Saturday while workmen repaired a broken pipeline. Pressure apparently built up in the oil pools below the ocean floor, they said, causing oil to seep out of sea-bottom fissures considerably faster than the usual 250-gallon-a-day rate geologists estimate. Because of foggy weather there was no estimate of the size of the slick.

Union Oil Co. officials said Sunday that reactivation of their pumps Saturday apparently relieved the pressure and halted the heavy seepage.

Hunting Mishap Fatal
XENIA (AP) — Robert Bayard, 58, of Port William, Clinton County, died Saturday in a hunting accident, the Greene County coroner reported. He said Bayard apparently shot himself in the leg and bled to death.

'Shell Game' In Stocks Hit By SEC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government plans to order a halt to trading in stocks of seven firms in a mounting Securities and Exchange Commission crackdown on a corporate version of the old shell game.

The SEC order was expected today along with requests for court injunctions against five companies and 13 individuals allegedly working as a group to sell stock in the seven corporations. The orders reportedly will be sought in California.

The shell game, as it is known in the securities trade, involves sale of inflated, if not worthless, stock in the refurbished shells of defunct corporations.

Operators of the game will pick up a corporate shell with no operations, no management, relatively few assets and no income. With the apparently unwitting help of over-the-counter brokers, they offer stock issues to the public at artificially high prices.

The SEC has more than doubled the number of orders against shell game operators this year, from 15 in 1968 to 35, and Commissioner Hugh Owens says organized crime may be involved in some operations.

"This is one of the products of an affluent society, which provides a fertile field for the schemer and the white-collar crook," Owens said.

Despite the SEC's drive against shell game operators, there is little policing of the market in which they apparently now flourish. The over-the-counter market lacks the stringent rules of an organized exchange. And, because the shares usually were registered and issued years ago, SEC registration and disclosures rules are bypassed.

President Plans Talk On Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plans to address the nation Tuesday with a message outlining American space goals in the decade ahead.

No time was set for the address.

The President has not indicated what the message may contain, although a special panel headed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has recommended three alternatives—including two that would put Americans on Mars in the 1980's.

Nasty Weather Rule Of Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wet nasty weather was the rule as the second day of winter dawned across the nation.

The precipitation ranged from snow in the Great Lakes area and sleet and freezing rain in the Central Appalachians to heavy rains and thunderstorms in the Southeast.

Low pressure in the West brought rain and snow in the higher elevations and some freezing rain and sleet from Nevada to Montana and the Dakotas.

High winds with gusts of more than 60 miles an hour buffeted the western portion of Colorado. Boulder reported one brief gust of 105 miles per hour. No injuries have been reported but windows were broken.

Little relief was immediately in sight as travelers warnings and heavy snow warnings were in effect for a 12-state area from Pennsylvania and New York southward to Alabama and South Carolina.

Gale warnings were also on tap for the New England coast. One to three inches of snow had already fallen by early morning in a region from the lower Great Lakes across the Ohio Valley into the Appalachians.

The only clear and dry weather was confined to an area extending from the Southwest into the North Central states.

Predawn temperatures ranged from 13 below at International Falls, Minn., to 77 at Key West Fla., Naval Air Station.

Flu Epidemic Kills Many

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP) — The worst epidemic in Australian New Guinea's history is over, after the death of hundreds of village men, women and children.

The epidemic of Hong Kong virus A2 flu cut a swath through the central highlands, the home of nearly one million people.

Pneumonia developed in many cases.

Nobody will ever know the actual death toll. New Guinea is rugged and the village people are scattered.

The director of public health, Dr. Ray F. R. Scragg, says the death toll is "something more than 2,000."

The epidemic apparently began in September.

Sweeping Tax Reform Bill Moves Nearer Final Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The most sweeping tax reform bill of modern times moved closer today to its final test in Congress with GOP leaders saying chances have improved for presidential approval.

The ultimate effect of the bill's provisions would cut income taxes of some Americans by $9.1 billion while raising them $6.6 billion for others by closing or narrowing loopholes.

A compromise version of difficult bills passed by the House and Senate delays the cuts for a time in order to increase its appeal to President Nixon, who is concerned about its possible inflationary effects.

Nixon has said he would veto a bill increasing Social Security benefits by 15 per cent, as the compromise measure does, and upping the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $800, as the Senate's version did. The compromise bill, however, limits the exemption increase to $750 in steps over a three-year period.

Republican congressional leaders who met with Nixon Saturday seemed cautiously optimistic the compromise version would receive the President's approval.

Completion of action on the bill in both houses without a hitch is the key to congressional adjournment for a Christmas recess, which was delayed when the conference committee that worked out the compromise could not finish its work until late last week.

The massive tax reform-relief bill goes beyond the revisions made by Congress during the Kennedy administration early in the 1960s. The last such sweeping revision came more than a generation ago.

While the tax relief provisions will not become fully effective until 1973, the 15 per cent rise in Social Security benefits, plus a new $100 monthly minimum payment, is to take effect Jan. 1.

Nixon has asked Congress for a 10 per cent increase in Social Security benefits to take effect later in the year.

The compromise tax bill would reduce the oil and gas depletion allowance from 27 1/2 per cent to 22 per cent and extend the income tax surcharge at a 5 per cent rate through June 30.

Congress earlier extended the surcharge, enacted at 10 per cent under the Johnson administration, through the end of this year.

ple will resent the discrimination against women as they rightfully resent the discrimination against other minorities. There is a Negro on the court but no woman," she said.

There is one vacancy on the nine-member court. At least three women are reported to be among the many persons being considered.

All congresswomen agreed with Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., that a woman should be selected only if she was the best qualified person the President could find and not just because she was a woman. Mrs. May said President Nixon has said he hoped a woman could be selected sometime while he is in office.

"It would be good to have a woman's viewpoint on the bench and to give further recognition to the fact that we realize women have ability," said Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., the only Negro congresswoman.

"Many of us women are focusing on one woman whom we know well and think is extremely well qualified. Mrs. Martha Griffiths," said Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo. "She has judgment, knowledge, integrity and lots of good common sense as well as judicial background."

Mrs. Griffiths is a Democratic congresswoman from Michigan.

The Women's Bar Association of the District of Columbia, the National Association of Women Lawyers, and the National Business and Professional Women's Club have all recommended Mrs. Griffiths to the President.

"I think it would be wonderful to have a woman on the court and its very nice of those groups to recommend me. But I don't think I have a chance," Mrs. Griffiths said.

Jet Hijack With Grenade Is Foiled

ATHENS (AP) — A Trans World Airlines clerk opened a passenger's handbag in a routine check at the Athens airport Sunday and found a hand grenade inside.

"I couldn't believe it," said Fritos Svortopoulos, who was credited with foiling a plot by three Lebanese Arabs to hijack the plane during a flight to Rome.

The flight had originated in Tel Aviv and was destined for New York.

Police arrested Issam Dounidi, 18; Sami Aboud, 20, and a woman, Amoud Khalil, 22. Each was carrying a pistol and one of their identical pieces of hand luggage contained explosives, police said.

Police said the three told them they planned to force the plane to Damascus and blow the nose up after landing.

After the arrests, police searched all the luggage and checked the 29 other passengers again. The Boeing 707 arrived at New York's Kennedy Airport three hours late.

Under a new system of air passenger control in Athens, a check of luggage is made at the airline terminal in downtown Athens and another at the airport.

The three Arabs were charged with possessing explosives, which could mean a death sentence in Greece.

It was the third time in 10 days the paratroopers had fought with North Vietnamese troops in the foothills leading from mountainous jungles along the border to South Vietnam's northern coast. Intelligence analysts said the North Vietnamese may have been heading for the coastal plain to get rice from guerrilla contacts.

President Nguyen Van Thieu visited the headquarters of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division 20 miles northwest of Saigon to wish the Americans a merry Christmas. He told them "many American troops will leave Vietnam next year according to our plan of replacement by Vietnamese troops." But he gave no figures beyond the 50,000 President Nixon has announced will be withdrawn by April 15.

In Saigon, legislative leaders protested police failure to interfere with pro-government demonstrators who smashed through the National Assembly building Saturday. The demonstrators protest was aimed at three deputies President Thieu has accused of being pro-Viet Cong. Fifteen miles northeast of Saigon, 5,000 demonstrators in Bien Hoa burned the three deputies in effigy Sunday and demanded government action against them.

Stock List Loses Steam
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market ran out of steam in moderate trading this afternoon after starting out the session on a winning note.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials up more than a point in early trading slipped to 789.47 off 0.39 at noon.

"There's some more tax-loss selling and also profit taking for the last-minute 1969 purposes" commented Eldon Grimsenior vice president of Walston & Co.

Under the tax law losses can be taken until the end of the year but Tuesday marks the last day that 1969 profit transactions can be conducted in order to clear by the end of the year. Severe tax-loss selling proved a significant market depressant last week.

Slick Roads Cause Wreck
A slight injury accident was investigated by the Highway Patrol Sunday on Route 23, just north of Route 22.

Jones attempted to slow down, his car slid on the wet pavement, striking the Hoop auto. A passenger in the Jones vehicle, Jenny Jones, received minor injuries.

No citations were issued.

Big Toe Replaces Severed Thumb
LONDON (AP) — A team of British doctors replaced a man's thumb with his big toe, and he is now earning a living as a woodworker, the Journal of Bone and Joint Surgery reported this weekend.

The man's left thumb was cut off by a circular saw. Doctors at Queen Victoria Hospital in East Grinstead grafted the top joint of the left big toe onto the hand, using a special microscope to join the blood vessels and nerve fibers.

The proposal was the sequel to another for Israel and Egypt which angered the Israelis when it was publicly announced two weeks ago.

The Israelis insist that they will not withdraw from the occupied territory without a peace treaty negotiated in face-to-face meeting with the Arabs. They are growing increasingly resentful at the U.S. prescriptions for peace, which they feel are continually chipping away at their position while the Soviet Union stands firmly behind the Arab refusal to negotiate with Israel.

On the frontier, Arab commando gunners in Jordan fired rockets into five Israeli settlements in the Beisan Valley, including the industrial town of Beit Shean. Sources in the area said the rockets caused no damage, but an Arab spokesman in Amman claimed they caused a heavy loss of life and property. Israeli artillerymen returned the fire.

CHRISTMAS IS A GIVING EXPERIENCE

In a world whose major philosophy seems to be "get it to live", it is refreshing to approach a season which places an emphasis on "giving to live."

At this time of year the air is electrified with "peace on earth, good will toward men." Our hearts vibrate with a closer walk with all humanity. We criticize less, and love more. Giving becomes more of a joy, than receiving. The Golden Rule becomes more a part of our soul than just memorized lines.

Is it significant that the first Christmas gift was not "to a life" but "of a life." God expressed His love for the world He created by "giving His Son" to give us his way of life — and a dawn of a new age was ushered in with the birth of Christ. His message gave birth to a new philosophy which was, indeed, destined to end an era of chaos.

Giving and love go hand in hand. Because of love, Jesus gave Himself for us. Hence, we cannot do less than give of ourselves when we seek to express our love and gratitude to God and to others.

To catch this spirit in our hearts is to face the most marvelous Christmas ever. One never really lives until he stops trying to save himself and begins losing himself to something BIGGER than he is. It is a law of spiritual compensation that if "we give to the world the best we have, the best will come back to us", and often in greater abundance.

Knowing that the greatest good comes from helping others, giving you this food for thought — instead of successful case histories — gives us a great joy.

We cherish for each reader along with our many friends and patients the exhilarating experience of "giving himself away." You have something wonderful to give that someone else needs. Discover for yourself this Christmas that it is "far better to give than to receive."

Different Viewpoints Emerge As Arabs Eye War Strategy

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Three different viewpoints emerged today as delegates from 14 Arab states and the Palestine Liberation Organization met in private session seeking a new strategy against Israel.

Sources at the Arab summit conference said the first lengthy discussions on Sunday produced these suggested courses of action:

1. Several rulers want to continue the search for a political solution although they do not necessarily subscribe to any of the formulas proposed since the 1967 war.

2. A number of states, reportedly including Egypt and Libya, favor launching a general war against Israel in an attempt to recover the territory lost in 1967. But some leaders doubt that the Arabs are ready for another round of hostilities.

3. One group of leaders holds the view that territories occupied by Israel—the Sinai Desert, the west bank of the Jordan River and the Golan Heights of Syria—would provide ideal base areas for Palestinian guerrilla raids against Israel.

The Palestinians, these leaders believe, should form a government in exile under guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat. The guerrillas should be given maximum backing by the Arab states, they say, because guerrilla action would eventually force Israel to negotiate with the Palestinian provisional government and reach an agreement under which both sides could live within Israel's pre-1967 borders.

Sources in Arafat's delegation said the Palestinians are not interested in forming a provisional government because this could cause "political complications" for the guerrilla movement.

Arafat himself was treated almost like a chief of state by the Arab leaders and was seated on the same level as the kings and presidents of Arab states.

Conference sources said Arafat asked the other Arab leaders to "strengthen the Palestine revolution" by giving his movement more money and arms and by granting the guerrillas complete freedom of action on territory adjoining Israel and the occupied territories.

(Continued from Page 1) force about 40 miles to the southeast. Three of the enemy were killed and three captured, while one American was wounded in the action northwest of Hue, the U.S. Command reported.

It was the third time in 10 days the paratroopers had fought with North Vietnamese troops in the foothills leading from mountainous jungles along the border to South Vietnam's northern coast. Intelligence analysts said the North Vietnamese may have been heading for the coastal plain to get rice from guerrilla contacts.

President Nguyen Van Thieu visited the headquarters of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division 20 miles northwest of Saigon to wish the Americans a merry Christmas. He told them "many American troops will leave Vietnam next year according to our plan of replacement by Vietnamese troops." But he gave no figures beyond the 50,000 President Nixon has announced will be withdrawn by April 15.

In Saigon, legislative leaders protested police failure to interfere with pro-government demonstrators who smashed through the National Assembly building Saturday. The demonstrators protest was aimed at three deputies President Thieu has accused of being pro-Viet Cong. Fifteen miles northeast of Saigon, 5,000 demonstrators in Bien Hoa burned the three deputies in effigy Sunday and demanded government action against them.

Stock List Loses Steam

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market ran out of steam in moderate trading this afternoon after starting out the session on a winning note. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials up more than a point in early trading slipped to 789.47 off 0.39 at noon.

"There's some more tax-loss selling and also profit taking for the last-minute 1969 purposes" commented Eldon Grimsenior vice president of Walston & Co.

Under the tax law losses can be taken until the end of the year but Tuesday marks the last day that 1969 profit transactions can be conducted in order to clear by the end of the year. Severe tax-loss selling proved a significant market depressant last week.

Police Called To Two Injury Accidents

Circleville Police investigated two accidents involving personal injuries during the weekend.

At 9:09 p.m. Saturday, Helen Davis, 24, a passenger in a car driven by her husband, William Davis, 31, 436 E. Main St., sustained a head injury.

Davis was northbound on Court Street. He had stopped at the intersection of Court and Main prior to making a right turn to allow a pedestrian to cross the street.

While he was stopped, his car was hit in the rear by an auto driven by Linda Eccard, 22, Columbus.

At 9:19 a.m. Saturday Lottie Graham, 68, 231 E. Mount St., sustained a cut on the head when her car struck the side of Lutz Market at the intersection of Court and High Streets.

Mrs. Graham had parked at the curb on High Street. She reached over to unlock her right hand door and accidentally stepped on the accelerator in the process. The car jumped the curb, striking the building.

Two accidents have been investigated by Police since the snow started falling Sunday afternoon, but both were of the personal bender type with no personal injuries involved.

(Continued from Page 1) ants said there also had been "tough talking" between Israeli Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin and the State Department after Rabin received the new U.S. proposal. Rabin returned with Eban.

The proposal was the sequel to another for Israel and Egypt which angered the Israelis when it was publicly announced two weeks ago.

The Israelis insist that they will not withdraw from the occupied territory without a peace treaty negotiated in face-to-face meeting with the Arabs. They are growing increasingly resentful at the U.S. prescriptions for peace, which they feel are continually chipping away at their position while the Soviet Union stands firmly behind the Arab refusal to negotiate with Israel.

On the frontier, Arab commando gunners in Jordan fired rockets into five Israeli settlements in the Beisan Valley, including the industrial town of Beit Shean. Sources in the area said the rockets caused no damage, but an Arab spokesman in Amman claimed they caused a heavy loss of life and property. Israeli artillerymen returned the fire.

Different Viewpoints Emerge As Arabs Eye War Strategy

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Three different viewpoints emerged today as delegates from 14 Arab states and the Palestine Liberation Organization met in private session seeking a new strategy against Israel.

Sources at the Arab summit conference said the first lengthy discussions on Sunday produced these suggested courses of action:

1. Several rulers want to continue the search for a political solution although they do not necessarily subscribe to any of the formulas proposed since the 1967 war.

2. A number of states, reportedly including Egypt and Libya, favor launching a general war against Israel in an attempt to recover the territory lost in 1967. But some leaders doubt that the Arabs are ready for another round of hostilities.

3. One group of leaders holds the view that territories occupied by Israel—the Sinai Desert, the west bank of the Jordan River and the Golan Heights of Syria—would provide ideal base areas for Palestinian guerrilla raids against Israel.

The Palestinians, these leaders believe, should form a government in exile under guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat. The guerrillas should be given maximum backing by the Arab states, they say, because guerrilla action would eventually force Israel to negotiate with the Palestinian provisional government and reach an agreement under which both sides could live within Israel's pre-1967 borders.

Still Unreliable

It will be a long time, preferably never, before the lie detector earns a respected place in American jurisprudence. The latest setback to advocates of investigation by polygraph developed in New York's Court of Appeals, the state's highest court.

unanimous decision by the seven justices rejected the attempt of a prosecutor to introduce the results of a lie detector test in a murder case. The court's antipathy to the lie detector is grounded in a belief that its reliability has not been convincingly demonstrated.

The decision is particularly significant because it shows there has been no appreciable gain the last decade or so in the reliability of the machines and their human operators, though their use has grown greatly.

There is something inherently repugnant about a machine that it designed to interpret the mind of a man. The less acceptance it has, the more reliance there must be on human judgments. And in determining the veracity of a fellow human being, that's the way it ought to be.

Spirit Of Christmas

Man, if he so will, can put his mind and heart in tune with the spirit of Christmas soon to come again to bring a revival of the hope for good will among all mankind.

It will not come through undue generosity of giving, or those outward displays which too often discredit the real meaning of the day. These are only symbols which man has attached to the anniversary of the most important event in human history.

To be genuine, the spirit of Christmas must be enthroned in the heart of man, a personal realization which he alone can know and enjoy.

With this meekness must come love for his fellowman, a determination to live helpfully — to search for and eliminate the dross in his life, and place love and kindness in its stead.

To whatever extent man can live by the spirit of Christmas will his life be a benediction and a thing of beauty.

Jack Clifton assumed presidency of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce succeeding Dale DeLong. Earl W. Palm was elected vice president of the organization.

Punishment Meted Out By Father

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — A 12-year-old boy, who pleaded guilty to stealing, was taken from Children's Court here by his father and spanked in a police cell.

The boy, whose name may not be reported, returned to the court with his father. Tears were streaming down the lad's face, and the father showed a reddened hand to Magistrate L. M. Wright. The charge was then dismissed.

The boy was said to have stolen purses from autos, and taken $8.30 from them.

The magistrate asked the father what he thought should be done, and the father said, "I'd like to give him a good thrashing." The magistrate then adjourned the case for a few minutes.

Magistrate Wright acted under the Social Welfare Act which permits a near relative to punish a child in a manner approved by the court.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

CARSTAIRS had been wed for less than two months, but already he was sadly disillusioned. "The thing that hooked me," he mourned, "was all the hokey she handed me on how she had majored at Cornell in Home Economics. She never told me, however, that she had even flunked defrosting."

In the Gay Nineties, "German" comedians like Weber and Fields achieved vast popularity with comedy routines that would be frowned upon today by ethnically conscious critics. A typical Weber and Fields joke, for instance, that not a soul complained about in the "good old days" went as follows:

Fields: At dinner this evening you belched over the pot roast. Are you in the habit of belching over your children?
Weber: Dere chusn't no rules ve go by in our house. Sometimes I go first, sometimes de children do.

OVERHEARD:
Bride of three months: "Darling, we'd better open a new checking account. The old one doesn't have any money in it."
By Rod Dangerfield: "I've reached that awful stage in my life when all the phone numbers in my little black book are doctors."
By Bob McKenzie: "There's a lot more begging done on fancy letterheads than with tin cups."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are vitamins, minerals and other nourishment as good in frozen food as in fresh food?

Mrs. S.E., New Hampshire

Dear Mrs. E.: There is now a vast interest in this problem generated by the sudden realization that man's families all over America have the mistaken notion that their food is adequate and nutritious. Experts in nutrition are highly aware that these nutrients may be destroyed partially or altogether by freezing methods. Manufacturers, too, are aware of this and frequently try to replace lost vitamins and minerals. Sometimes they overdo it and add far more than is necessary and thus may be responsible for too much and too high a concentration of vitamins in the food.

Fortunately, the body defenses can, in most instances, regulate its own needs and will excrete in the urine the vitamins and minerals that it does not need for nourishment and thus protect the organs from an overabundance.

This does not mean that frozen foods are totally lacking in nourishing elements. It does mean that no diet should consist of one of ready-to-eat, picked-from-the-freezer foods. A normal, wellrounded diet, in addition to frozen foods, should give protective nourishment. It is expected that government regulations will specify demand labeled contents that will bring to the consumer the protection he deserves.

Are the stresses of modern civilization greater than they were before the turn of the century?

Mr. E.Y., Rhode Island
Dear Mr. Y.: Every generation likes to believe that theirs is the only age of anxiety. Perhaps this helps them in finding an excuse for reasons of failure in social and psychological areas.

I believe that modern tensions are different rather than greater. I believe, too, that tensions in this hurried, frenetic period of our lives are more readily expressed rather than shamefully hidden.

There are those who can cope with overwhelming emotional disturbances. There are others who go into a tailspin and cannot adjust to the most trivial experience.

There must be no great gratification in comparing physical or emotional problems with those of another individual living at this time or at another period. There is no measuring device that can do it. Each must seek within himself the balance and control of the stresses that devitalize him and keep him from being a productive human being.

Sometimes it is almost impossible to do this alone and find the pathway to freedom from anxiety. It is at this time that the competent advice of a well-trained psychiatrist, psychologist or religious adviser is necessary.

When was LSD found to be dangerous?

Mrs. M.U., Georgia

Dear Mrs. U.: In 1963 I wrote a column on the brilliant new discovery LSD 25, or lysergic acid. At that time the danger of this double-edged discovery was pointed out. Unfortunately the advice of physicians everywhere was unheeded and now threatens the health of so many young people.

Boric acid in powder or solution can be a hazard to newborn children.

Expropriators Dig Graves

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Radomiro Tomic, who is a Christian Democrat candidate for President in Chile's 1970 election, has served warning that if he wins he will expropriate all outside capital investments. "Capitalism," he says, "is not compatible with democracy."

Southerners than Senor Tomic, notably the famous Austrian economist Friedrich von Hayek, have made the point that if capitalism disappears, democracy inevitably vanishes along with it. The man who cannot own his own tools, or bargain in the marketplace for a job, has no leverage to sustain himself against an all-encompassing government.

Assuming, however, that Chile — and other raw material producing countries — could manage the miracle of combining state ownership of everything with individual freedom, the question still remains: would it be worth it? A friendly critic, President Frank R. Milliken of the Kennecott Copper Company, says no.

Kennecott has already done what it can for Chile, letting the government take a controlling interest in the old Braden copper properties while the Kennecott experts now work for what amounts to a management fee. So Mr. Milliken does not speak as a gringo who hopes to grind the faces of the Latin American poor. He does not even address himself specifically to Senor Tomic. What he has done is simply to set down the claims of the "three stakeholders" in the minerals business as it develops in the raw material countries. One stakeholder is the host nation within whose borders the ore deposit is found. Second is the producer who raises and invests the capital, mines the ore, processes it and brings it to market. The third stakeholder is the consumer.

The host nation, naturally, wants to get the benefits of employment, taxes, leverage in advancing the nation's overall economic and social development and the creation of satellite industries. The producer wants to recover his investment and make a reasonable return on it. The consumer wants a steady supply at a good price.

Mr. Milliken does not go into the question of local politics or foreign policy in his discussion of the problems involved. All he has to say is that if the "three stakeholders" can't be satisfied, the remarkable technological of the "developed world" will soon find ways of getting along without the raw materials in question.

Without lecturing anybody, or becoming preachily moralistic, Mr. Milliken ticks off some of the things we may expect to see. Fusion power, he says, would make obsolete both the fossil fuels (oil, coal and atomic fuels as energy sources. In the electrical power industry, the introduction of solid state devices over the next ten years "may well exert serious effects on the industry's consumption of metals." Thermionic advances would permit generation of electric current with little copper involved in the generating unit. Switches, relays, rectifiers and transformers which use much metal, will ultimately be replaced by non-metal equipment.

In automobiles, the turbine engine will enable the manufacturers to dispense with a lot of copper. The development by Essex International of an electronic computerized control system will eliminate most of the terminal connectors and electrical wires used in today's cars. And the petroleum industry already knows how to carry through refining processes that will guarantee necessary octanes to gasoline without bothering to add tetraethyl lead. As for aluminum, the time is coming when it will be made out of ordinary clay instead of the more expensive bauxite.

None of these things will come very fast as long as private investment in raw material sources is encouraged in the developing countries. But if the wave of expropriation or "nationalization" continues, the new processes will be hurried. Some Chileans of an older generation than Senor Radomiro Tomic, the hell-bent "nationalizer," will recall what happened when World War I blockades cut the Germans off from Chilean nitrate. The German scientists came up with the low cost nitrogen fixation process and the natural nitrate industry never recovered its old gimp.

According to Boyle

By D. M. KREISHER
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — Christmas is in the country. Tramping through the fields to chop down a tree. Loading it in a horse-drawn sleigh for the ride home over snow-covered lanes.

Christmas in the city. Pounding the concrete pavements in search of an apartment-sized pine. Trying to find a taxi that will take passenger and tree home through slush-covered streets.

Buying a Christmas tree in the city is enough to shake the faith of even the most ardent believer in Santa Claus.

There's no lack of trees. Streetcorner stands spring up in almost every neighborhood in the weeks before Christmas.

The problem is getting the tree home. Unless you pick a three-foot-or-under size, coping with the springy branches and sharp needles on public transportation can be a nightmare.

Try taking a bus for example. Don't forget to have the exact fare — 20 cents — ready to drop into the coin box. Clutch tree in one hand, money in other and try to scale the distance to that first high step. Give up. The bus driver probably won't let you on anyway.

Maybe you're brave enough to tackle the subway. Drop token in slot. Enter turnstile, pushing tree ahead. Go back to booth: you forget a token for the tree. Forget it.

Taxi drivers, capricious in the best of circumstances, will slow up long enough only to laugh. Even if you find a friendly soul, the tree probably won't fit.

Having a tree delivered is one solution, but most places won't deliver anything less than a 10-foot, $15 tree.

Unwilling either to pay the price of a tree in the city or give up the fun of a real tree, my husband and I decided to venture forth this year to the country. Not the country, actually. Just the suburbs.

We rented a car, fought our way through city traffic and arrived at the border, intent on finding the perfect tree. It had to be a Scotch pine, about 6 feet, perfectly shaped. And cheap. Not too much to ask.

The first store had only bare tree home. Unless you pick a three-foot-or-under size, coping with the springy branches and sharp needles on public transportation can be a nightmare.

British Yule Laws Make Bad Holiday

LONDON (AP) — Christmas in Britain could be a pretty un-merry affair if everybody obeyed the law.

Under ancient statutes carolers can be jailed and a family can be hauled into court for eating too much plum pudding.

The songsters and feasters are safe. A Scotland Yard spokesman says: "Those laws are a bit old-fashioned—a spot of carol singing and Christmas dinner never hurt anyone."

As for singing in the streets, London's urban regulations state with a touch of Scrooge that "any constable may request said singers to desist."

A determined caroler violating the silent night could get a $12 fine.

The Puritan Parliament of 1644 passed a law saying that on Christmas "no man shall partake at dinner of more than three courses. Nor shall the old habit of eating and making plumme puddings and pies be followed, for these heathenish things are abominable."

Violators on those days spent the rest of the festive season in a dungeon. The law still exists, but nobody seems to care.

Punishment Meted Out By Father

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — A 12-year-old boy, who pleaded guilty to stealing, was taken from Children's Court here by his father and spanked in a police cell.

The boy, whose name may not be reported, returned to the court with his father. Tears were streaming down the lad's face, and the father showed a reddened hand to Magistrate L. M. Wright. The charge was then dismissed.

The boy was said to have stolen purses from autos, and taken $8.30 from them.

The magistrate asked the father what he thought should be done, and the father said, "I'd like to give him a good thrashing." The magistrate then adjourned the case for a few minutes.

Magistrate Wright acted under the Social Welfare Act which permits a near relative to punish a child in a manner approved by the court.

President Nixon Buys Through Proxy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he was unable to do any Christmas shopping this year, but a friend in New York acted as his agent in buying gifts for his wife and daughters.

Nixon said he gives presents that people ordinarily wouldn't buy for themselves, but he didn't say what his choices were.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

CARSTAIRS had been wed for less than two months, but already he was sadly disillusioned. "The thing that hooked me," he mourned, "was all the hooley she handed me on how she had majored on Cornell in Home Economics. She never told me, however, that she had even flunked decorating."

In the Gay Nineties, "German" comedians like Weber and Fields achieved vast popularity with comedy routines that would be frowned upon today by ethnically conscious critics. A typical Weber and Fields joke, for instance, that not a soul complained about in the "good old days" went as follows:

Fields: At dinner this evening you belched over the pot roast. Are you in the habit of belching before your children?

Weber: Dere chust ain't no rules ve go by in our house. Sometimes I go first, sometimes de children do.

OVERHEARD: Bride of three months: "Darling, we'd better open a new checking account. The old one doesn't have any money in it."

By Rod Dangerfield: "I've reached that awful stage in my life when all the phone numbers in my little black book are doctors."

By Bob McKenzie: "There's a lot more begging done on fancy letterheads than with tin cups."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are vitamins, minerals and other nourishment as good in frozen food as in fresh food?

Mrs. S.E., New Hampshire
Dear Mrs. E.: There is now a vast interest in this problem generated by the sudden realization that man families all over America have the mistaken notion that their food is adequate and nutritious. Experts in nutrition are highly aware that these nutrients may be destroyed partially or altogether by freezing methods.

Manufacturers, too, are aware of this and frequently try to replace lost vitamins and minerals. Sometimes they overdo it and add far more than is necessary and too much and too high a concentration of vitamins in the food.

Fortunately, the body defenses can, in most instances, regulate its own needs and will excrete in the urine the vitamins and minerals that it does not need for nourishment and thus protect the organs from an overabundance. This does not mean that frozen foods are totally lacking in nourishing elements. It does mean that no diet should consist of one of ready-to-eat, picked-from-the-freezer foods. A normal, wellrounded diet, in addition to frozen foods, should give protective nourishment. It is expected that government regulations will specify demand labeled contents that will bring to the consumer the protection he deserves.

Are the stresses of modern civilization greater than they were before the turn of the century?

Mr. E.Y., Rhode Island
Dear Mr. Y.: Every generation likes to believe that theirs is the only age of anxiety. Perhaps this helps them in finding an excuse for reasons of failure in social and psychological areas.

I believe that modern tensions are different rather than greater. I believe, too, that tensions in this hurried, frenetic period of our lives are more readily expressed rather than shamefully hidden.

There are those who can cope with overwhelming emotional disturbances. There are others who go into a tailspin and cannot adjust to the most trivial experience.

There must be no great gratification in comparing physical or emotional problems with those of another individual living at this time or at another period. There is no measuring device that can do it. Each must seek within himself the balance and control of the stresses that devitalize him and keep him from being a productive human being.

Sometimes it is almost impossible to do this alone and find the pathway to freedom from anxiety. It is at this time that the competent advice of a well-trained psychiatrist, psychologist or religious adviser is necessary.

When was LSD found to be dangerous?

Mrs. M.U., Georgia
Dear Mrs. U.: In 1963 I wrote a column on the brilliant new discovery LSD 25, or lysergic acid. At that time the danger of this double-edged discovery was pointed out. Unfortunately the advice of physicians everywhere was unheeded and now threatens the health of so many young people.

Boric acid in powder or solution can be a hazard to newborn children.

Expropriators Dig Graves

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Radomiro Tomic, who is a Christian Democrat candidate for President in Chile's 1970 election, has served warning that if he wins he will expropriate all outside capital investments. "Capitalism," he says, "is not compatible with democracy."

Sounder thinkers than Senor Tomic, notably the famous Austrian economist Friedrich von Hayek, have made the point that if capitalism disappears, democracy inevitably vanishes along with it. The man who cannot own his own tools, or bargain in the marketplace for a job, has no leverage to sustain himself against an all-encompassing government.

Assuming, however, that Chile — and other raw material producing countries — could manage the miracle of combining state ownership of everything with individual freedom, the question still remains: would it be worth it? A friendly critic, President Frank R. Milliken of the Kennecott Copper Company, says no.

Kennecott has already done what it can for Chile, letting the government take a controlling interest in the old Braden copper properties while the Kennecott experts now work for what amounts to a management fee. So Mr. Milliken does not speak as a gringo who hopes to grind the faces of the Latin American poor. He does not even address himself specifically to Senor Tomic. What he has done is simply to set down the claims of the "three stakeholders" in the minerals business as it develops in the raw material countries. One stakeholder is the host nation within whose borders the ore deposit is found. Second is the producer who raises and invests the capital, mines the ore, processes it and brings it to market. The third stakeholder is the consumer.

The host nation, naturally, wants to get the benefits of employment, taxes, leverage in advancing the nation's overall economic and social development and the creation of satellite industries. The producer wants to recover his investment and make a reasonable return on it. The consumer wants a steady supply at a good price. Mr. Milliken does not go into the question of local politics or foreign policy in his discussion of the problems involved. All he has to say is that if the "three stakeholders" can't be satisfied, the remarkable technological of the "developed world" will soon find ways of getting along without the raw materials in question.

Without lecturing anybody, or becoming preachily moralistic, Mr. Milliken ticks off some of the things we may expect to see. Fusion power, he says, would make obsolete both the fossil fuels (oil, coal and atomic fuels as energy sources. In the electrical power industry, the introduction of solid state devices over the next ten years "may well exert serious effects on the industry's consumption of metals." Thermionic advances would permit generation of electric current with little copper involved in the generating unit. Switches, relays, rectifiers and transformers which use much metal, will ultimately be replaced by non-metal equipment.

In automobiles, the turbine engine will enable the manufacturers to dispense with a lot of copper. The development by Essex International of an electronic computerized control system will eliminate most of the terminal connectors and electrical wires used in today's cars. And the petroleum industry already knows how to carry through refining processes that will guarantee necessary octanes to gasoline without bothering to add tetraethyl lead. As for aluminum, the time is coming when it will be made out of ordinary clay instead of the more expensive bauxite.

None of these things will come very fast as long as private investment in raw material sources is encouraged in the developing countries. But if the wave of expropriation or "nationalization" continues, the new processes will be hurried. Some Chileans of an older generation than Senor Radomiro Tomic, the hell-bent "nationalizer," will recall what happened when World War I blockades cut the Germans off from Chilean nitrate. The German scientists came up with the low cost nitrogen fixation process and the natural nitrate industry never recovered its old gimp.

According to Boyle

By D. M. KREISHER
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — Christmas in the country. Tramping through the fields to chop down a tree. Loading it in a horse-drawn sleigh for the ride home over snow-covered lanes.

Christmas in the city. Pounding the concrete pavements in search of an apartment-sized pine. Trying to find a taxi that will take passenger and tree home through slush-covered streets.

Buying a Christmas tree in the city is enough to shake the faith of even the most ardent believer in Santa Claus.

There's no lack of trees. Streetcorner stands spring up in almost every neighborhood in the weeks before Christmas.

The problem is getting the tree home. Unless you pick a three-foot-or-under size, coping with the springy branches and sharp needles on public transportation can be a nightmare.

Not taking a bus for example. Don't forget to have the exact fare—20 cents—ready to drop into the coin box. Clutch tree in one hand, money in other and try to scale the distance to that first high step. Give up. The bus driver probably won't let you on anyway.

Maybe you're brave enough to tackle the subway. Drop token in slot. Enter turnstile, pushing tree ahead. Go back to booth: you forget a token for the tree. Forget it.

Taxi drivers, capricious in the best of circumstances, will slow up long enough only to laugh. Even if you find a friendly soul, the tree probably won't fit. Having a tree delivered is one solution, but most places won't deliver anything less than a 10-foot, $15 tree.

Unwilling either to pay the price of a tree in the city or give up the fun of a real tree, my husband and I decided to venture forth this year to the country. Not the country, actually. Just the suburbs.

We rented a car, fought our way through city traffic and arrived at the border, intent on finding the perfect tree. It had to be a Scotch pine, about 6 feet, perfectly shaped. And cheap. Not too much to ask.

The first store had only balsam firs. The second featured 8-foot trees unsuitable to 8-foot ceilings. The third offered a seemingly selection of dry pines.

Hours later, muttering under our breaths about the benefits of an artificial tree, we hit paydirt. A perfect little tree, well shaped, still fresh, just 5½ feet. $4.95 only.

The tree, compressed with strings to a manageable size, was loaded in the trunk of the car. We ventured back through city traffic and, with the aid of a friendly elevator operator, got the tree into the apartment.

Total expenditure? About eight hours time. Two sets of frayed nerves. And only $22 including the $17 for the car rental.

Ease Trade With Peking

New U.S. Rules In Effect Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. restrictions on trade with Red China will be eased today for the second time in six months, but direct trade with the Communist nation will remain forbidden.

The State Department said Friday the new regulations are intended to improve the competitive position of American business concerns overseas and to make it easier for tourists, collectors and museums to import Chinese works of art.

One change in regulations will permit American-owned subsidiaries of U.S. firms in other nations to engage in nonstrategic trade with mainland China on the same basis as their foreign competitors.

Present restrictions also will be eliminated on U.S. business participation in third-country trade in Chinese Communist goods. American firms will be able to buy and ship to third countries commodities presumed to be of Chinese origin that third-country firms now are able to send to the United States under procedures that require certificates of origin.

A third change removes the $100 ceiling on the purchase of Chinese Communist goods by Americans for non-commercial use. This would allow the importing of items which are not for resale, such as works of art. The United States last July relaxed trade regulations by permitting purchases by U.S. tourists of Chinese Communist goods up to $100. Categories of Americans allowed to visit mainland China also were broadened at that time.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Your Son Is A Big Boy Now!

DEAR ABBY: We have a 30-year-old son who has never been married. He is very good looking, has personality plus and everybody likes him. He's a hard worker and has always been wonderful to his father and me.

About two years ago he started to date this divorced woman who had two small children. Her husband left her, and we heard that he had good reason to.

Now our son is living openly with this woman as man and wife. He still comes home often and is good to us, but we are so ashamed of the way he is living. We have lied to cover up for him, but so many people know the truth. How can we face them? What can we say to our son? Please help me. I can't sleep nights.

HIS MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: There is nothing you can say to your son! Don't lie to cover up for him. If he's living "openly" with this woman, he doesn't care what people think or say, YOU are not responsible for the actions of a 30-year-old offspring. He's a big boy now. So, open your windows and close your mind, and get some sleep.

DEAR ABBY: Since our honeymoon (four years ago) we have had a lousy marriage. Different backgrounds, different temperaments, money problems, booze, and sex problems. But because of two wonderful kiddies, my wife and I have remained in the same house. We have had some good times, and some bad times. But mostly bad.

We made—and broke two appointments with a marriage counselor. Embarrassment! However we did keep the third one, which seemed to be the turning point in our lives.

Nothing has happened over night, but in the last few weeks, with the help of our counselor, my wife and I have established a new attitude toward each other. We aren't out of the woods yet, but we have certainly made a beginning. The new thoughtfulness and consideration we have begun to show each other has inspired affection and has brought a joy to both of us that is exciting.

Abby, so many people read your column. Why don't you tell married couples who are unhappy with each other that they need to learn how to communicate their needs in an uninhibited manner, and an impartial and competent counselor may be able to help them.

MAKING PROGRESS IN L. A.
DEAR ABBY: Where have you been? I have recommended marriage counselors so often in this column that I have actually been accused of getting a rake-off.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell that lonely 65-year-old spinster who bought herself a big doll to talk to after her sister's death to:

1. Take a picnic lunch to a second-rate nursing home and share it with a little doll who can smile back.
2. Don't read the morning paper before you bathe, dress and have walked to the nearest hospital. Then go to the poorest ward and find someone whose eyes are bad, or maybe someone who is paralyzed or in a cast, and read the paper to HIM. And keep thinking every minute, "I can bathe myself, I can walk, and I can read!"
3. Go to the animal shelter and adopt some doomed little creature. Spend days and nights replacing its fears and neglect with love and care. The joy you will receive by its response will be well worth the trouble.
4. Study up on our feathered friends, then get a bird feeder. Most birds are hungry.
5. Take an outpatient for a day.

I think you get the message. The worst disease in the world is self pity.

Office Party Good News For Courts

MIAMI (AP) — "Tis the season to be followed," says a private investigator who recommends avoiding the office holiday party.

The season "always brings a rush of new business on the domestic relations front," investigator Ed Bishop said Friday in an interview.

"The much joked about office party frequently triggers what is usually a long-standing problem," he said. "Liquor relaxes the guy's inhibitions. . . in many instances, Christmas parties act as a catalyst."

After the partygoer has tarried longer than he should, Bishop added, "the wife suddenly gets what she considers concrete evidence of something she's suspected all along. Then she calls us."

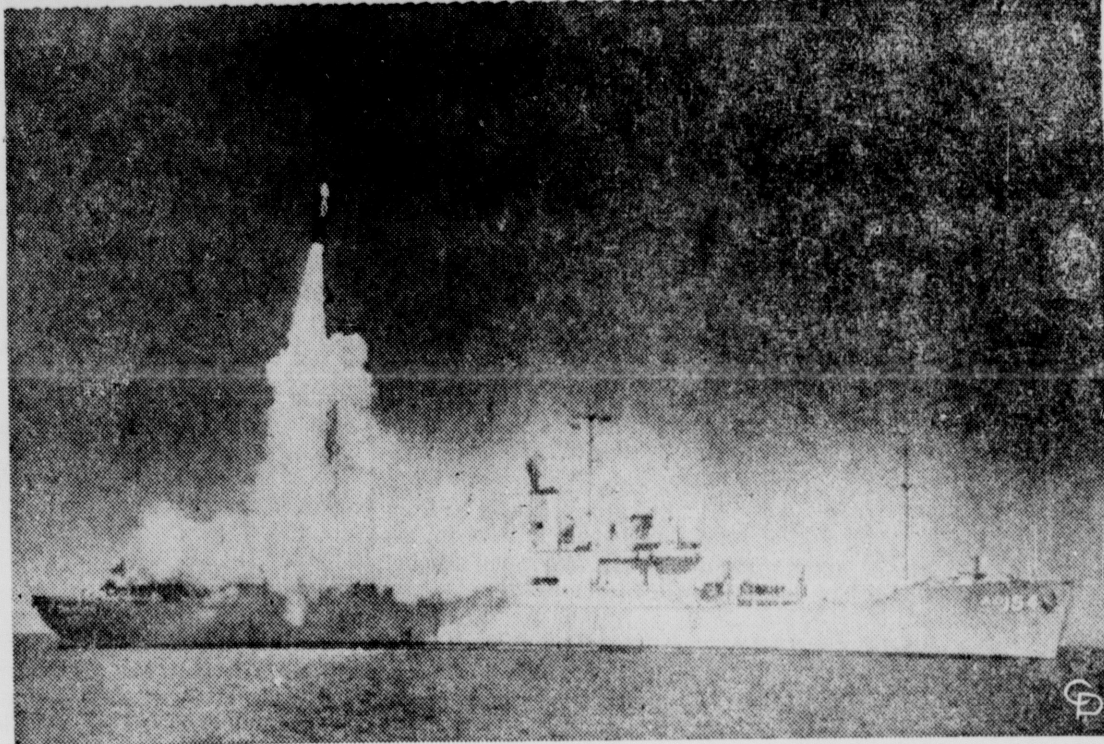

The rugged, 54-year-old former Miami Beach policeman has worked for several Dade County grand juries and currently is helping a Florida legislative committee. His agency has 73 investigators.

Although wives make many of the calls that bring him an upsurge of business during the holidays, Bishop said, they aren't alone in contacting the agency. "Oh sure," he said, "we chase wives, too."

New Oil Leak 'Not Serious'

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A new oil slick in the Santa Barbara Channel, where thousands of gallons seeped from an undersea well last January, is small and not a serious problem, the Coast Guard says.

The new leak erupted Thursday near the well that blew out 11 months ago, fouling beaches and harbors.

Coast Guard spokesmen said Friday the new slick is dissipating at sea and is "fairly well cleaned up."

Office Party Good News For Courts

MIAMI (AP) — "Tis the season to be followed," says a private investigator who recommends avoiding the office holiday party.

The season "always brings a rush of new business on the domestic relations front," investigator Ed Bishop said Friday in an interview.

"The much joked about office party frequently triggers what is usually a long-standing problem," he said. "Liquor relaxes the guy's inhibitions. . . in many instances, Christmas parties act as a catalyst."

After the partygoer has tarried longer than he should, Bishop added, "the wife suddenly gets what she considers concrete evidence of something she's suspected all along. Then she calls us."

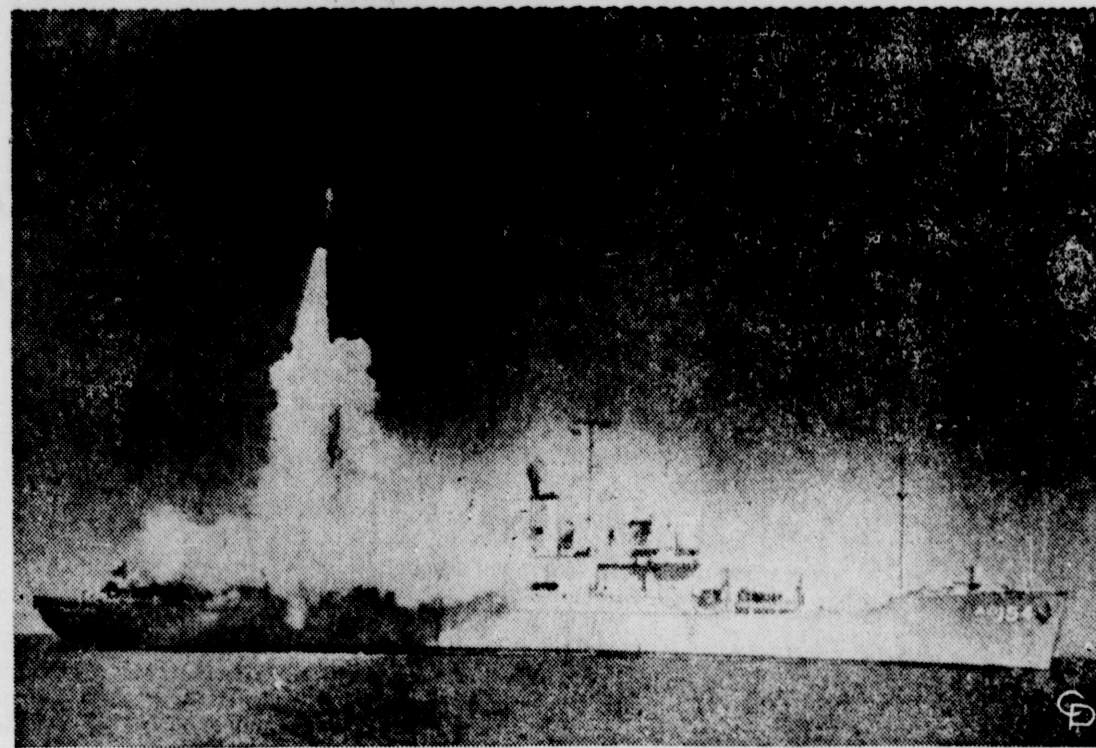

The rugged, 54-year-old former Miami Beach policeman has worked for several Dade County grand juries and currently is helping a Florida legislative committee. His agency has 73 investigators.

Although wives make many of the calls that bring him an upsurge of business during the holidays, Bishop said, they aren't alone in contacting the agency. "Oh sure," he said, "we chase wives, too."

Presley Is Now Called Elvis

BRISBANE (AP) — Donald Leslie McNulty, 22, walked into the Supreme Court Registry and came out with a new name — Elvis Aron Presley.

He explained, "I have been called Elvis so much that Don did not seem to be my proper name any more. People told me I looked like Elvis."

New Oil Leak 'Not Serious'

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A new oil slick in the Santa Barbara Channel, where thousands of gallons seeped from an undersea well last January, is small and not a serious problem, the Coast Guard says.

The new leak erupted Thursday near the well that blew out 11 months ago, fouling beaches and harbors.

Coast Guard spokesmen said Friday the new slick is dissipating at sea and is "fairly well cleaned up."

Tree Buyer Finds Friend Through Note

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When Les Gillespie picked out a Christmas tree at a shopping center, little did he know he and his wife at that moment found a friend in Nova Scotia.

Attached to the tree was a rolled up piece of tinfoil and inside was this message:

Dear Christmas Tree Buyer, "I am a 12-year-old girl a little handicapped with writing due to cerebral palsy. My sister writes for me. Should I be lucky enough to get a sweater for Christmas, size 14. Thank you."

The girl, who included her address, was Adele Perry, one of eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Perry of Merigomish, Pictou County, Nova Scotia.

A phone call to the Canadian province confirmed that Adele, the daughter of a lumberjack, had the note written Nov. 20 and tied to a tree destined for shipping to the United States.

On Sunday, Gillespie, a foreman at Westinghouse Corp. here, and his wife, bought a sweater and scarf set and sent it to Adele.

"I am glad Les picked that tree," Mrs. Gillespie said.

"Somehow, this must have been intended for us."

Mrs. Gillespie had a son and a daughter by a previous marriage but both died of multiple sclerosis, the daughter only last April.

American Folk Music Goes On And On And On

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Along U.S. highway 71 there is a neglected frame cottage, where prior to the turn of the century, a "Mr. Howard" lived quietly with his family. But "Howard" was in reality the outlaw, Jesse James and on April 5, 1882, he was killed by a former lieutenant, Bob Ford, who wanted the $10,000 reward.

After Jesse was shot in the back, verses singing the praises to his memory spread like wildfire. Jesse James was part of the "hero-outlaw" group of men who gave us much of the folk music we still have today. Aside from the plight of the outlaw, other popular western themes of folk music were death bed confessions, religion, local disasters, rovers, faithless lovers and old demon rum.

Jesse James' cottage here at St. Joseph is buried amidst a teeming city of 87,000 people and is passed almost unnoticed. But the legends — particularly the musical legends — go on and on.

Folk music is part of America. Long before its popularity via disc, radio and TV, regions and groups had their own brand of folk songs.

Versions of early English and Scottish ballads, for instance, were brought to America by settlers in the 17th century, and are still sung by the mountaineers of West Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee. Many of the songs told of feuds, tragedies, heartaches.

As pioneers migrated westward, they created many folk songs of their own. Men attracted to California by gold had a dangerous journey ahead. To keep their children amused during these hectic hours on the trail, they made up lullabies.

Sailors heading for California by ship, braving the fearsome waters of Cape Horn, sang chants of their own devising.

Some of the most interesting folk songs still sung today relate the lonely life of the cowboy. Sorrowful in theme, they tell of the long hours alone on the range, reflect on the cruelty of the cattle barons.

However, it was from the Negro slaves of the South that the most truly American form of music came: the Blues. Slow in tempo, and with a bit of humor mixed with the pathos, the songs told of lost love, bad treatment, poverty, hunger and cold.

The late William C. Handy, the "Father of the Blues," once said: "My Blues came from the music of southern Negro farmers, miners, steel workers and plain working people."

Discs of more than 100 of these songs are now kept in the Library of Congress as a permanent record of this important American music.

During the same period a new wave of social-minded folk singers brought protest songs into the folk music mainstream. Today's growing topical song movement is a direct outgrowth. Before the race riots dim in the headlines, someone will be singing about them.

Many of the current group of folk singers are concentrating on the theme of social comment. Strangely, folk music has an attraction for both young and old.

Whether it be "On Top of Old

Smokey" from the southern mountaineer, the story of "Boll Weevil" from the plantation Negro, or the freedom songs of today, folk music will always be the litany of the American people. The form it takes changes with the times and places of origin. But basically it is always the same — an impact upon the emotions.

It's been a long time since some pioneer mother sang softly: "Hush, little baby, don't say a word, Mama's going to buy you a mocking bird."

But we're still singing it today!

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Old Man Winter came pounding at Ohio's door but turned out to be just a sheep in wolf's clothing.

After dumping from one to three inches of snow on most sections of the state, except in the northeast where Canton measured seven early today, the threat of more white stuff tapered off.

Heavy snow warnings for various sections were canceled by early today with only a few flurries expected in the northern and eastern areas.

As winter officially arrived at 7:44 p. m. Sunday night, the patrol reported a rash of minor accidents as highways became glazed with ice.

The weatherman, however, was hedging on whether Ohio would have a white Christmas. The long range outlook up to Wednesday is for rain or snow and a little warmer.

Snow depths around Ohio early today included Akron-Canton 7 inches; Cincinnati 1; Cleveland 4; Columbus 3; Dayton 3; Youngstown 5 and Zanesville 2.

Meanwhile Ohio's sister states were geared for a beating.

Travelers warnings were out today for Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky. West Virginia was braced for freezing rain while from one to four inches of snow was predicted for the other two areas.

A coastal low was developing rapidly this morning and moving northeastward through the East Coast states.

The effect of the storm on Ohio will be increasing northerly winds and cold air and the light snow flurries will develop. The storm's effect on Ohio, however, likely will cease altogether late tonight and skies will clear.

Lows tonight will be in the teens and low 20s.

Cloudiness is expected to spread over Ohio on Tuesday and temperatures again will be in the 30s.

Next time you need extra ice cubes for a party, use plastic egg trays. The oval cubes are just right for the job.

316 Teen-Agers Die On Ohio Roads

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Highway Safety Department reports traffic accidents in Ohio took the lives of 316 teen-agers 15-19 years old in the first nine months of 1969.

Highway Safety Director Warren C. Nelson said it was the highest toll in any five-year age bracket. They were among the 1,981 fatalities listed during the period compared to 1,765 in 1968.

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor entered 1970 locked in a strike against the giant General Electric Co. and storm warning flags flew over other impending big bargaining battles with industry.

"Possible stormy weather ahead in labor-management relations," was the pessimistic forecast of Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz.

Caught in President Nixon's determined campaign to squeeze inflation out of the economy, unions were under heavy pressure from workers to produce big wage hikes to make up for shrinking paychecks and rising prices.

Industry—also under financial heat from White House policies of tight money, reduced federal spending and high interest rates—balked at big wage demands and talked tough at the bargaining table.

Neither side took much comfort from Nixon's assurance that they weren't to blame for the nation's worst inflationary spiral in 20 years—that it was those free-spending habits of former Democratic President John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The money squeeze in a slowing economy seemed certain to bear out Shultz' forecast and heighten labor-management confrontations in major 1970 contract negotiations covering some 5 million workers.

These included most of the nation's 600,000 railroad workers whose contracts were up Dec. 31; some 400,000 truckers in March; about 900,000 auto, farm and construction equipment manufacturing workers next fall; 70,000 rubber workers in April; 200,000 clothing workers whose contracts are spread over the year, and some 400,000 construction workers, whose hefty 1969 wage hikes of about 15 per cent were already under Nixon administration criticism as inflationary.

Shultz and his assistant secretary, former AFL-CIO Machinists' official W. J. Usery, pulled off a minor bargaining miracle in December by steering the nation's railroad industry and four shop craft unions to a wage settlement without a strike or congressional intervention.

Top pay for most of the 48,000 railroad shop craft workers will rise 10 per cent a year in a two year pact covering 1969 retroactively and 1970.

The agreement, boosting shop craft workers from $3.59 to $4.28 an hour, is sure to bring demands for big wage hikes from other rail unions in the new year.

Strikes at the beginning 1969 were costing the economy 3.4 million man-days of lost production time a month, the highest level in 23 years, but had tapered off toward year-end to 2.8 million, highest in three years, largely because there were fewer major contracts up for negotiation.

Labor leaders, something less than enchanted with the new Republican administration whose election they had fought, also dug in early for a political campaign aimed at preserving and enlarging the Democratic margin in Congress in the 1970 elections.

Labor showed itself still politically potent by leading the successful lobbying fight that defeated Senate confirmation of Nixon's Supreme Court choice, Judge Clement Haynsworth.

ESCAPES DWARFISM — Diane Schindler, 10, Dayton, Ohio, who was headed for dwarfism because of a deficiency of pituitary gland growth hormone, has sprouted 17 inches while under treatment at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago. She was 34½ inches tall at 4½ years, and now is 51 inches tall. She is being treated with human growth hormone, a scarce material.

And, if the problems of pay, prices and politics weren't enough, the labor movement also fretted about its worst internal divisiveness since the late John L. Lewis marched his Congress of Industrial Organizations out of the American Federation of Labor more than 30 years ago.

Walter Reuther, after angrily taking his 1.6 million-member United Auto Workers out of the 14-year-old merged AFL-CIO, joined the 2 million-member Teamsters union in creating the Alliance for Labor Action to compete with the AFL-CIO for members, power and prestige.

Lewis, barely six months in his grave, was mentioned frequently in a bitter election fight for his mantle as president of the Independent United Mine Workers union.

W. A. "Tony" Boyle, hand-picked by Lewis as Mine Workers president since 1963, frequently raised the ghost of Lewis in his effort to put down the challenge of Joseph A. Yablonski, also a long-time Mine Workers official.

Boyle won reelection to a second five-year term in the $50,000-a-year presidency of the nearly 200,000-member union, polling a majority of about 2 to 1 by union count. Yablonski charged massive vote stealing and threatened to go into federal court or to the Labor Department to seek to overthrow the Boyle victory.

Another fight erupted over the rising demands of black workers to enter AFL-CIO construction and building trades unions, which already had opened their apprenticeship programs to Negroes and other minority groups, said they would throw open their doors to any who could qualify as journeymen, and the fight simmered down, at least temporarily.

The demand sparked demonstrations by blacks at construction projects in Pittsburgh, Chicago and other cities, including some fistfights.

The construction unions, which already had opened their apprenticeship programs to Negroes and other minority groups, said they would throw open their doors to any who could qualify as journeymen, and the fight simmered down, at least temporarily.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Policemen will substitute candy canes and good wishes for park-

The greeting attached to cars

Proper Exercise Restores Vigor In Men Past Seventy

By JAMES NEVIN MILLER
Central Press Association
Correspondent

LOS ANGELES — Can the physical functions of a healthy man in his 40s ever be brought back to a senior citizen in his 70s? Positively yes, says a University of Southern California authority on the physiology of exercise.

USC's Dr. Herbert A. DeVries says his research has proved that men in their 70s, granted that their basic health is good, can regain much of the vigor and physical functions of their 40s through carefully planned exercise.

But don't dash out of the house and run a mile! Exercise, to be properly effective, should be prescribed for individuals with the same care and certainty a physician dispenses when choosing drugs for patients, according to Dr. DeVries.

The researcher, working with USC's Gerontology Center, is studying the effects of exercise on a group of 41 men, aged 50 to 87, who live in or near Laguna Hills leisure World in Laguna Beach.

Today, after more than a year of testing oldsters, the physiologist reports these dramatic results in group averages among men who participate in his controlled program of exercise:

Diastolic blood pressure has improved by six per cent. Body fat has decreased by 4.8 per cent. Maximum oxygen consumption, the best single measure of an individual's vigor, increased 9.2 per cent. Oxygen pulse, a measure of cardio-vascular functioning, improved by 8.4 per cent. Arm strength increased by 7.2 per cent. Other indications of working ability showed an improvement of nine per cent.

Still another significant improvement as a result of the planned exercise program is a sharp drop in nervous tension. Dr. DeVries reports: "In our 41 experimental subjects there has been a reduction of 14 to 15 per cent in nervous tension. This we compared to our control group of non-exercisers, who experienced a slight increase in nervous tension."

"Tension reduction has long been a neglected area in physical education. This is serious because of the significance of tension as a potential threat to good health, particularly in the middle-aged and elderly."

It has been DeVries' con-

EXERCISE IS KEY — Under the watchful eye of physiologist Dr. H. A. DeVries an oldster is tested to see if exercise improves his health. The answer is yes. This is part of a study of results of controlled exercise for persons between the early 50s and late 80s.

tention that some portion of the physical decline that accompanies old age is caused in major part by physical inactivity and is therefore unnecessary. His research is proving the accuracy of that theory.

Test subjects in the program work out for one hour, three days a week. Their routine includes: calisthenics, jogging, static stretching and aquatics. They are tested at the start and also at intervals of six, 18 and 42 weeks for signs of improvement. Because his goals necessitate pioneering efforts, the scientist found it necessary to develop many of his measurement tests and equipment. One is what he calls his PEP (Physiological Efficiency Profile) test. This measures vital factors such as blood pressure, maximal oxygen consumption estimated from submaximal performance, nervous tension and muscle tone.

The physiologist has developed a device which measures nervous tension levels by determining the electrical activity of the muscles to check the amount of nervous tension the subject is experiencing. This equipment and other instrumentation is housed in a specially designed mobile laboratory.

U.S. Savings Bonds Sales Are $21,294 In Pickaway

Ohio sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares in November were $23.2 million. The state attained 86.2 per cent of its 1969 sales goal Nov. 30, with total sales of $277.8 million. Kenneth F. Fosnaugh, Pickaway County Volunteer Savings Bonds chairman, reported November sales of Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares in the County were $21,294. The County achieved 65.2 per cent of its annual sales goal the end of November.

The County Chairman reminded County residents that earlier this month President Nixon signed a bill raising the bond interest rate to 5 per cent, retroactive to June 1, 1969.

He stated the new rate of five per cent to maturity applies to all outstanding Series E and H Bonds sold on or after June 1, 1969. In addition, the higher rate also applies to older bonds. Beginning with the first semi-annual interest period starting on or after June 1, 1969, rates on outstanding E and H Bonds will be increased to yield five per cent when held to maturity or extended maturity. He noted that since these outstanding Bonds will also benefit, there would be no advantage in redeeming outstanding bonds to purchase new ones.

The original maturity of the Series E Bond has been shortened from seven years to five years and 10 months. H Bonds will continue to mature in 10 years. The Freedom Share, which continues with a five per cent yield until maturity in four and one-half years, will be removed from sale effective June 30, 1970, but The Department of the Treasury has promised holders of Freedom Shares a 10 year extension.

A new limitation on E Bonds is set at $5,000 per calendar year at purchase price and $5,000 on Series H Bonds at face value. E Bonds issued beginning June 1, 1969 will earn 4.01 per cent the first year and from that point on, 5.20 per cent if held to maturity.

Officials Raid Cycle Club; Find Weapons

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—Authorities raided the headquarters of a motorcycle club and netted "quite a bit" of arms and ammunition, the Erie County Sheriff's Department reported today.

A dispatcher said 12 members of the club, called The Misfits, were taken into custody and were being held in the Erie County and Sandusky city jails. The sheriff's office said deputies went to the clubhouse, an old farm outside of Sandusky, Sunday night, found the arms but none of the members were inside.

Deputies then launched a search throughout the area and began picking up the members one by one.

Solon Rips Cleveland Police Drive Against Black Panthers

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—U.S. Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, criticized a Cleveland police officer for saying the Black Panthers "have to be wiped out."

Referring to a statement by Frank Schaefer, president of the Fraternal Order of Police in Cleveland, Stokes said Sunday:

"This is repugnant to everything this country stands for when the police put themselves in the position of being judge, jury and executioners."

"If police can kill Black Panthers today with impunity, what is to prevent them from killing members of white organizations tomorrow with impunity?"

Criticizing Cleveland police for a raid on an alleged Black Panther headquarters last week, Stokes said:

"They are not shooting Black Panthers in banks, or in the streets, robbing or raping. They are shooting them in their homes."

Schaefer, appearing on a local television broadcast Sunday, said "this country doesn't need a Black Panther party. To my way of thinking, they have to be wiped out."

Questioned by a newsman later concerning that statement, Schaefer said he meant to include also such groups as the Mafia and Ku Klux Klan. "Our information is that Black Panthers are out to overthrow the government," Schaefer said.

Stokes, appearing at an anti-war vigil at First Methodist Church in Cleveland, said an attorney for the Panthers, Charles Garry, has turned over "key evidence" to a committee of five black congressmen investigating the police slayings of two members of the Panthers in Chicago Dec. 4.

"It's obvious to anybody—you don't have to be a ballistic expert—that this was a shoot-in, not a shoot-out," Stokes said of the Chicago slayings. He

7 Arrested In Violence

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Seven members of the Weathermen, radical faction of the Students for a Democratic Society, have been charged with malicious destruction of property and assault with intent to kill in connection with a weekend disturbance at the Severance Shopping Center in Cleveland Heights.

The seven were to appear today in Cleveland Heights Municipal Court.

Police said the students were among a group of 15 Weathermen who used metal pipes to smash windows in 10 stores.

One youth, 19-year-old John Skardis of Euclid was shot in the leg as he was beating Patrol James Horner with a pipe, police in the suburb reported. Horner suffered a broken left hand.

Three women were among those arrested.

said Garry's evidence points to a "systematic plan to exterminate Black Panthers."

Garry himself appeared later in Cleveland at a Black Panther Defense Rally at Case Western Reserve University and echoed Stokes' remarks.

Garry said that what he called "the genocide and harassment" of Black Panthers is "only the prelude to the genocide of all types of undesirables by the men and women who rule this country."

He said Oakland, Calif., police set out to "get" the Panthers because the black militant group had instituted a patrol system to watch for police "harassment" of Negro area residents.

The Panthers, carrying guns which they displayed openly, would inform the black allegedly being harassed of their rights, Garry said.

When the city of Oakland outlawed weapons in the city limits, Panthers were instructed to keep their guns at home, the lawyer said.

Ghetto Talk 'Explained' To Whites

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Two sociologists say the language of the black ghetto is a foreign tongue to most middle-class whites.

Dr. John B. Joyner, director of Indiana University's Center for Human Relations, and Allen D. Grimshaw, an IU sociology professor, also reported in a study that ghetto talk can be shocking to outsiders.

Joyner is a Negro. Grimshaw is white.

They cite these examples: tough can mean beautiful, bad can mean good, piece can mean a gun, hog can mean Cadillac, baby hog can mean a type of Buick, vine can mean fancy clothes, help can mean a shot of drugs.

And four-letter, Anglo-Saxon words, normally shunned in conversation, are considered just more words in the ghetto according to Joyner and Grimshaw.

The four-letter words can change meaning with facial expressions of the user. With a smile, the term means friendship. With a frown, the term is an insult. Joyner and Grimshaw point out that the complications of ghetto talk confound and shock well-meaning white social workers trying to communicate.

One helpful aspect: most Negroes in the ghetto are "bilingual." Joyner and Grimshaw say.

State, Mead Corp. Settle Land Deal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state and the Mead Paper Corp. have ended three years of negotiations and approved a land exchange involving 1,855 acres to consolidate state land holdings for more efficient management.

Ohio Department of Natural Resources Director Fred E. Morr said the exchange involved 6,215 acres owned by Mead in Athens and Vinton counties, valued at $454,831, and 5,639 acres owned by the state in Vinton County, known as Raccoon State Forest and valued at $454,708. The transaction increases state holdings by more than 500 acres.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The good deed of a woman at the Los Angeles International Airport is going to result in a $100 Christmas gift to the Central Institute for the Deaf in St. Louis.

Marine Lance Cpl. Patrick A. Fogarty, 19, of St. Louis, said he was $12 short of airfare home from Camp Pendleton, Calif., last Thursday when a woman stepped forward and offered the money.

Fogarty asked the woman for her name and address so he could repay her but was given only the name of the institute.

He said he will send $100 from his savings account to the school.

Rock Music Group Success As Vegas Entertainers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A rock music group, the first to have top billing at a posh casino, is filling the 1,000-seat auditorium.

In what many entertainers call an establishment city, Caesars Palace signed Blood, Sweat and Tears for six shows in three nights.

Though tense at first, the eight casually dressed jazz-rock musicians, and singer David Clayton-Thomas were applauded warmly by an opening night audience Thursday and drew critical praise Friday.

The hotel's entertainment director, Dave Victorson, concedes that if you can bring in an audience, you bring on gamblers.

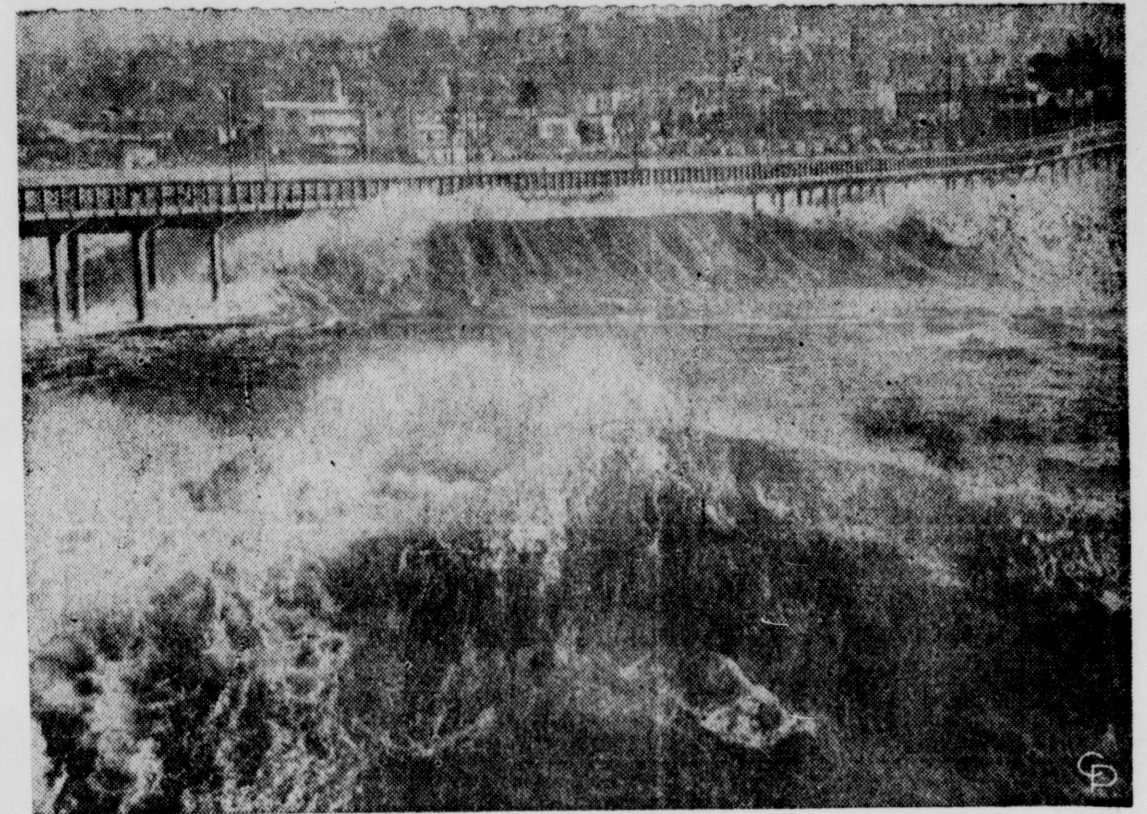

"Though a young crowd may not have as much money," he said, "gamblers like to go where the action is. They may be attracted by a young crowd."

Most rock groups, such as Little Richard, Fats Domino, the Checkmates, and Sly and the Family Stone have been in the smaller show lounges, relying strongly on theatrics and showmanship.

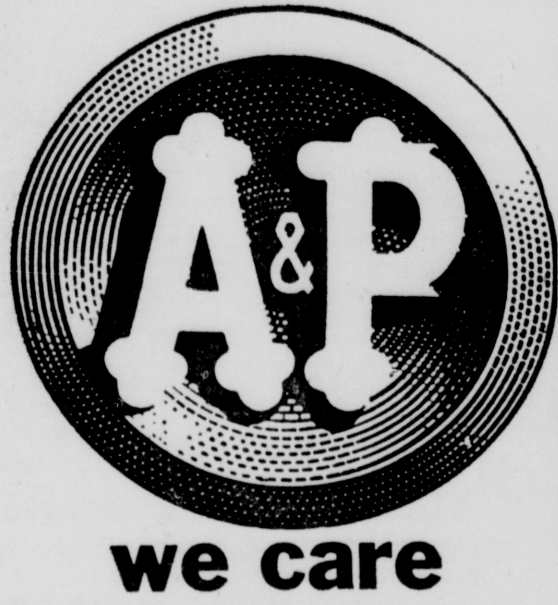

With none of the banter and choreography of a typical Las Vegas show, Blood Sweat and Tears performed such hits as "Spinning Wheel," "And When I Die" and a 20-minute number unusually long for the strip.

Their manager, Larry Goldblatt, said the show is identical to one starting Dec. 26 at the Fillmore East in New York "from the heart of the establishment to the heart of the underground."

Ghetto Talk 'Explained' To Whites

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Two sociologists say the language of the black ghetto is a foreign tongue to most middle-class whites.

Dr. John B. Joyner, director of Indiana University's Center for Human Relations, and Allen D. Grimshaw, an IU sociology professor, also reported in a study that ghetto talk can be shocking to outsiders.

Joyner is a Negro. Grimshaw is white.

They cite these examples: tough can mean beautiful, bad can mean good, piece can mean a gun, hog can mean Cadillac, baby hog can mean a type of Buick, vine can mean fancy clothes, help can mean a shot of drugs.

And four-letter, Anglo-Saxon words, normally shunned in conversation, are considered just more words in the ghetto according to Joyner and Grimshaw.

The four-letter words can change meaning with facial expressions of the user. With a smile, the term means friendship. With a frown, the term is an insult. Joyner and Grimshaw point out that the complications of ghetto talk confound and shock well-meaning white social workers trying to communicate.

One helpful aspect: most Negroes in the ghetto are "bilingual." Joyner and Grimshaw say.

State, Mead Corp. Settle Land Deal

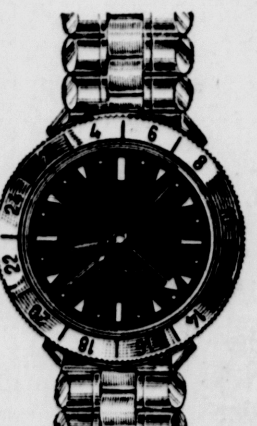

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state and the Mead Paper Corp. have ended three years of negotiations and approved a land exchange involving 1,855 acres to consolidate state land holdings for more efficient management.

Ohio Department of Natural Resources Director Fred E. Morr said the exchange involved 6,215 acres owned by Mead in Athens and Vinton counties, valued at $454,831, and 5,639 acres owned by the state in Vinton County, known as Racecon State Forest and valued at $454,708. The transaction increases state holdings by more than 500 acres.

Kindness Pays Big Dividend For Institute

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The good deed of a woman at the Los Angeles International Airport is going to result in a $100 Christmas gift to the Central Institute for the Deaf in St. Louis.

Marine Lance Cpl. Patrick A. Fogarty, 19, of St. Louis, said he was $12 short of airfare home from Camp Pendleton, Calif., last Thursday when a woman stepped forward and offered the money.

Fogarty asked the woman for her name and address so he could repay her but was given only the name of the institute.

He said he will send $100 from his savings account to the school.

Rock Music Group Success As Vegas Entertainers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A rock music group, the first to have top billing at a posh casino, is filling the 1,000-seat auditorium.

In what many entertainers call an establishment city, Caesars Palace signed Blood, Sweat and Tears for six shows in three nights.

Though tense at first, the eight casually dressed jazz-rock musicians, and singer David Clayton-Thomas were applauded warmly by an opening night audience Thursday and drew critical praise Friday.

The hotel's entertainment director, Dave Victorson, concedes that if you can bring in an audience, you bring on gamblers.

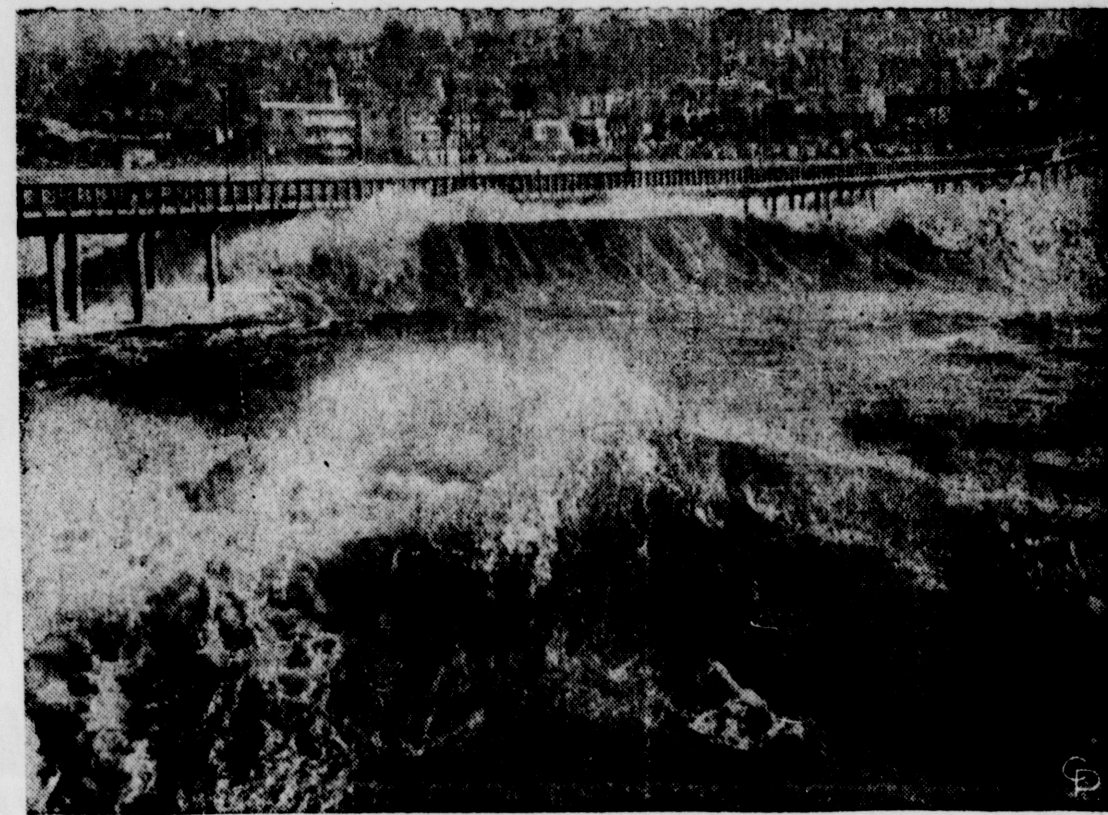

"Though a young crowd may not have as much money," he said, "gamblers like to go where the action is. They may be attracted by a young crowd."

Most rock groups, such as Little Richard, Fats Domino, the Checkmates, and Sly and the Family Stone have been in the smaller show lounges, relying strongly on theatrics and showmanship.

With none of the banter and choreography of a typical Las Vegas show, Blood Sweat and Tears performed such hits as "Spinning Wheel," "And When I Die" and a 20-minute number unusually long for the strip.

Their manager, Larry Goldblatt, said the show is identical to one starting Dec. 26 at the Fillmore East in New York "from the heart of the establishment to the heart of the underground."

OUT OF THE ARCTIC—Generated by an Arctic storm, high waves pound the municipal fishing pier at Ocean Beach, San Diego, Calif.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Sullivan's Sunday night hour on CBS was a patchwork of entertainment highlights of the past decade.

While bits and pieces were fascinating, the idea was more intriguing than the execution. We saw a moment of Richard Burton in a monologue from his Broadway show "Camelot," there were two "Dollys"—Ginger Rogers and Pearl Bailey—singing the same song in their own ways. There was a lot of Barbra Streisand and the Beatles.

The vaults of The Sullivan show must be a treasury of performers' material, but his summary was surprising and disappointing because the archive material took second place to the evening's guest stars—Petula Clark, Robert Goulet, and Diana Ross and the Supremes.

Goulet, for instance, presided over a sketchy summary of the top show music of the period, but much more interesting was a few seconds of old tape showing a boyish Goulet making his TV debut. Equally interesting was an old black-and-white tape of Barbra Streisand in her Sullivan debut in 1962 singing "Cry Me a River," followed by a recent color tape of a very sophisticated Streisand performing in Las Vegas.

Andy Williams' show each week is a handsome, tuneful hour of music and gentle comedy done in excellent taste. And the annual Williams Christmas show when the whole family—parents, brothers, sister, wife and children—takes part conveys the spirit of the holiday better than any variety show since Perry Como's day.

The program broadcast Saturday night with its holiday music and the reflection of genuine family affection resulted in a very fine, happy hour. One of its built-in attractions is that the viewers can see how much his children have grown in a year.

There was no glamor but plenty of adventure and danger in NBC's actuality special Friday night, "Sahara" was an account of a caravan of men and camels carrying cargo of salt across the vast desert.

The danger—lack of water, getting lost, sandstorm—was always present. The men plodded ahead, carefully rationing food and precious water between oases.

The photography was striking, the script was filled with the small and fascinating detail and was well presented by Charles Boyer. It certainly destroyed any romantic notions about shieks and Bedouins.

ABC has signed "Bewitched" for another three seasons. The situation comedy is now in its sixth season and the new agreement insures the presence of producer William Asher and his wife, Elizabeth Montgomery, the star of the series, through nine years of fantasy.

Ethel Kennedy Supports Glenn For U.S. Senate

CINCINNATI (AP) — John Glenn said Friday he was "happy" to learn that Ethel Kennedy, widow of Sen. Robert Kennedy, supports his candidacy for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Ohio.

The former astronaut said he read about Mrs. Kennedy's support in a Washington newspaper and wasn't sure what role she might play in the campaign. Glenn said Mrs. Kennedy is a "very close personal friend," but he had not sought her endorsement.

Glenn campaigned in Hamilton earlier Friday and repeated his support of a systematic withdrawal of U. S. troops from Vietnam.

In the past one variety of fern was believed to heal wounds and broken bones, another was thought to prevent nightmares and another was considered a prevention for baldness.

San Francisco Police Use Intermediaries With Militants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In an effort to avoid confrontations with Black Panthers, police have agreed to use civilian intermediaries in dealing with the black militant organization in Berkeley and San Francisco.

Star Jailed In India

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Kishore Kumar, noted Indian film star was sentenced to two months at jail for income tax evasion after being convicted of failing to declare $21,000 of his 1961-62 income. The conviction was believed to be the first of its kind in modern Indian history.

Charles Garry, a white attorney for the Black Panthers, said the agreement "could become contagious across the nation with other police departments."

He said, however, that he would not be "lulled into complacency" by the pact. "I don't trust cops," he said.

Police in Berkeley, national headquarters for the Black Panthers, and in San Francisco agreed Friday to use the civilians to prevent conflicts and misunderstandings between themselves and the Black Panthers.

Black Panther headquarters said it would issue a statement later naming those it wishes to act as intermediaries. A Berkeley police spokesman said: "We'll use five of our leading black citizens." He did not name them, however.

"We've advocated this approach for months," Garry said. "We'll wait and see how it works. I'm tired of all the rough stuff."

For a week, attorneys have been staffing Panther offices in Berkeley and San Francisco at night.

"We will honor any warrants or orders and deliver any Black Panther they want," Garry said.

"We don't plan to start a campaign for similar agreements across the nation because that is up to each community. I do think it could be a showcase here for adoption by other cities, though."

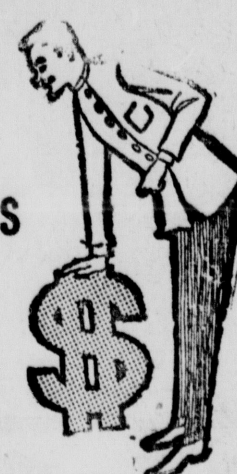

The Swiss have converted a 14th century mule trail into a 7,320-foot mountain road, the highest open to traffic in Switzerland, but motorists unfamiliar with mountain driving are advised to bypass the steep, narrow road.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Sullivan's Sunday night hour on CBS was a patchwork of entertainment highlights of the past decade.

While bits and pieces were fascinating, the idea was more intriguing than the execution. We saw a moment of Richard Burton in a monologue from his Broadway show "Camelot," there were two "Dollys"—Ginger Rogers and Pearl Bailey—singing the same song in their own ways. There was a lot of Barbra Streisand and the Beatles.

The vaults of The Sullivan show must be a treasury of performers' material, but his summary was surprising and disappointing because the archive material took second place to the evening's guest stars—Petula Clark, Robert Goulet, and Diana Ross and the Supremes.

Goulet, for instance, presided over a sketchy summary of the top show music of the period, but much more interesting was a few seconds of old tape showing a boyish Goulet making his TV debut. Equally interesting was an old black-and-white tape of Barbra Streisand in her Sullivan debut in 1962 singing "Cry Me a River," followed by a recent color tape of a very sophisticated Streisand performing in Las Vegas.

Andy Williams' show each week is a handsome, tuneful hour of music and gentle comedy done in excellent taste. And the annual Williams Christmas

Ethel Kennedy Supports Glenn For U.S. Senate

CINCINNATI (AP) — John Glenn said Friday he was "happy" to learn that Ethel Kennedy, widow of Sen. Robert Kennedy, supports his candidacy for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Ohio.

The former astronaut said he read about Mrs. Kennedy's support in a Washington newspaper and wasn't sure what role she might play in the campaign. Glenn said Mrs. Kennedy is a "very close personal friend," but he had not sought her endorsement.

Glenn campaigned in Hamilton earlier Friday and repeated his support of a systematic withdrawal of U. S. troops from Vietnam.

In the past one variety of fern was believed to heal wounds and broken bones, another was thought to prevent nightmares and another was considered a prevention for baldness.

San Francisco Police Use Intermediaries With Militants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In an effort to avoid confrontations with Black Panthers, police have agreed to use civilian intermediaries in dealing with the black militant organization in Berkeley and San Francisco. Charles Garry, a white attorney for the Black Panthers, said the agreement "could become contagious across the nation with other police departments."

He said, however, that he would not be "lulled into complacency" by the pact. "I don't trust cops," he said. Congress . . .

Nixon has threatened to veto the supplemental appropriations, although he said Sunday a final decision had not been made.

Congress is planning a recess until Jan. 19—unless Nixon should invoke another of his warnings and summon House and Senate back to work immediately after Christmas.

The President had said he would call a special session unless appropriations measures for the current fiscal year—which began nearly six months ago—were passed before adjournment.

But Scott indicated the White House was satisfied with an arrangement under which the $19.9 billion appropriation including the contested health and education money would remain in congressional custody during the recess.

Nixon threatened to veto the bill after the Senate passed it at $21.4 billion, saying it was too costly for an inflation troubled economy.

Scott said in his judgment, the veto warning was not altered when House-Senate negotiators worked out the $19.9 billion compromise terms.

Actually, $1.1 billion of the reduction was in appropriations which were not to have been spent this year anyway.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the majority leader, said there would be no Senate action on the embattled measure until after the recess.

er the recess, and Scott said he had agreed to that plan.

Some House Democrats, Speaker John W. McCormack among them, would just as soon send the bill to Nixon and let him veto the money—seeing in that a political campaign issue for 1970.

A foreign aid dispute between Senate and House flared Saturday night, dooming that appropriation until after the holidays. The Senate rejected a $1.8 billion foreign aid appropriation, primarily because of House insistence on a $54.5 million outlay to buy jet fighter planes for Nationalist China.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in a separate bill fixing foreign aid terms, rejected the planes, along with $50 million in additional military aid to Korea.

The Senate response: 39-29 approval of Mansfield's motion to table and thus kill the compromise appropriation bill.

The Senate then assigned a panel of conferees to hold new sessions with House negotiators, and return with an appropriation bill shorn of the Formosan and Korean items, and held within the $1.6 billion overall aid ceiling earlier set by Congress.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., chief of the Senate conference, said such ceilings often have been ignored in past appropriations, and added he does not plan to seek any new talks with the House until late January.

He said that should provide time "for the Senate to cool off and come back to its senses."

Texas Billionaire Leaves With Gifts For Viet POWs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Texas billionaire left by chartered jet today on the second leg of a trip he hopes will end with the delivery of 180,000 pounds of Christmas presents to 1,400 Americans held by North Vietnam.

"Allowing private American citizens to bring Christmas directly to these men would be a major step toward improving relations between our people," H. Ross Perot said before the plane—with "Peace on Earth" painted on it—left Dallas Sunday.

Most of the cargo — bedding, clothes, canned food, medicine and personal packages from prisoners' families — was loaded aboard the Boeing 707 during a stop in Los Angeles before it took off for Honolulu.

A second plane, named "Goodwill Toward Men," waited in Dallas for word to proceed.

Perot told newsmen he planned to arrive in Bangkok Tuesday and take another plane to Hanoi to try to persuade officials to allow the cargo planes to enter.

"That will give us most of the 24th to unload and bring Christmas to those guys on Christmas Day," Perot said.

"Of course, we could have Christmas in January."

He said Hanoi had discouraged the trip in a cabled message, advising Perot to send packages through normal postal channels via Moscow.

Perot, 39, who owns a Dallas computer company, organized a group called United We Stand, which is sponsoring the flight. He said he received large donations to help him pay the cost, about $600,000.

With Perot were about 50 newsmen and project workers including Red Cross doctors and a male nurse.

Perot said that since he announced his plan a week ago he hasn't sought advice from U.S. officials. If he did, he said, "the odds that this trip could succeed would go to zero."

The idea for the flight came as "a by-product of meeting a 4-year-old boy who has never met his father," Perot said.

SUFFRAGE BIRTHPLACE — Mrs. Thyra Thomson, Wyoming's secretary of state, pauses to admire the statue of Esther Hobart Morris in the state capital, Cheyenne. The Wyoming Territory was the birthplace of women's suffrage.

Wyoming Justly Proud Of Role In Women's Rights

By SANDO BOLOGNA
Central Press Association
Correspondent

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — The people of Wyoming are observing in a modest way, the 100th anniversary of the landmark legislation of "women's equal rights" passed by the Legislature.

Proud of being the first state or territory in the United States to grant women the right to vote and to hold public office, Wyoming is nicknamed "The Equality State." Its motto: "Equal Rights."

Historians are not certain who originated the precedent-setting legislation. The honor might go to Col. William Bright, who introduced the bill in the territorial legislature; Esther Hobart Morris, one of the first three Wyoming women to be appointed justices of the peace, or Edward M. Lee, who led the fight for suffrage.

An all-male Territorial Council (senate) voted for women's rights with six affirmative votes; the House gave seven supporting votes. However, it was Esther Morris who is honored as the heroine of the suffrage movement.

A life-sized bronze statue of Mrs. Morris, as the "proponent of the legislative act which in 1869 gave distinction to the Territory of Wyoming" stands on the entrance walk to the Capitol in Cheyenne.

Mrs. Morris is credited with having proposed the suffrage idea at a tea party, thus leading to Wyoming being "the first government in the world to grant women equal rights," according to the inscription on the statue's marble base.

Another statue of Mrs. Morris is in Statuary Hall in the nation's capitol, Washington, D. C.

A simple ceremony was held recently at South Pass City to commemorate the passage of the suffrage act by the Territorial Council Nov. 12, 1869, and by the Territorial House the following month.

Gov. Stanley K. Hathaway said recently: "Even though the act was not law (referring to Wyoming being a territory then) there were many questions yet to be answered. The one uppermost in the minds of most was how would this experiment work out? Would the approximately 1,000 women in the territory take advantage of the rights granted them?"

Esther Hobart Morris earned her niche in Wyoming history by serving as justice of the peace for eight and one-half months in South Pass City while that small gold-mining town was at the crossroads of transcontinental travel. The two other women chosen as justices of the peace did not perform their duties, according to historical evidences.

During 1870, women were called to serve on grand and

Morgenthau Will Resign

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert M. Morgenthau resigned today as U.S. attorney for New York's Southern District.

Morgenthau, a Democrat, had refused to offer the customary resignation when President Nixon took office last January and Nixon last Wednesday let it be known that if the attorney didn't resign he would be replaced anyway.

The White House announced that he would be replaced by former New York State Sen. Whitney North Seymour Jr., a Republican.

In view of that, Morgenthau said today, it is "apparent that I cannot function with full effect." He said the resignation would be effective Jan. 15.

Seymour's appointment must be approved by the U.S. Senate.

A large turnout of women was reported when they voted for the first time in September, 1870.

POW Wives Break Silence After 3 Years

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) —Silent anguish is the common bond shared by 27 women here. Their men are either prisoners of war, missing in action—or dead. Many don't know which.

They have stayed on in this Navy town, where the Atlantic Ocean laps the shore and training jets zoom overhead, comforting and sustaining each other. They say their husbands are "the forgotten men" of the Vietnam war.

The 27 wives are only a fraction of the nearly 1,400 women in this country with a similar fate. Up until recently they have not spoken up, they've been afraid to.

Afraid of what enemy forces in Vietnam would do to their husbands—if they are alive. Why are they speaking out now?

"Time is running out," said attractive blonde, gray-eyed Mrs. James Mulligan, the mother of six sons.

"My husband (a navy commander of Lawrence, Mass.) has been a prisoner four and a half years now... all those years of imprisonment. What harm can be done now?" she asked.

"We've been very quiet up until now," said Mrs. Jeremiah A. Denton, a Southerner of cameo-like beauty. "We've gone through diplomatic channels. We've written letters. North Vietnam has refused to abide by the rules for prisoners set up by the Geneva convention. We hope now, by speaking out, when North Vietnam sees public opinion against them..." her voice trailed off.

Because this is the Christmas season, a time of reckoning when one feels more poignantly the loss of loved ones—and the hope of miracles—some hope against hope their husbands will be home by Christmas.

Only five of the 27 have ever received letters. Yet each writes her monthly letter—all that is allowed by the North Vietnamese. Even those without hope. Not knowing if there is a husband there to receive the letter. Or, if he is there, whether he will be given it.

Each faithfully gleans what she can of the essence of her life with her children, trying to commend it into six lines—all that can be sent under Hanoi's rules.

Navy Capt. Denton, of Mobile, Ala., a tall, handsome pilot, was shot down over North Vietnam July 18, 1965.

Five days later, his wife found out he was a prisoner of war. Four and a half years he has been imprisoned. Yet, Jane Denton says, "I'm one of the lucky ones."

Mrs. Denton devotes her life to their seven children, ranging in age from 7 to 22.

The woodland scene outside and the secure, tastefully furnished home, filled with antiques and oil portraits of children, contrasted sharply with the picture of her husband—from whom she has received seven letters—which she saw on a television reel about American prisoners.

"He looked pale, haggard and drained," she said. That was in 1966. Three years have passed since.

June Nelson was a bride of only two days when her husband, Navy Lt. Richard Nelson, left for Vietnam. He was shot down several months later and has been missing for almost 22 months.

No one saw parachutes and June believes her tall, curly-haired pilot-husband, 28, is dead.

"I can't believe they'd do this," she said, with an impatient shake of her head. Why won't they tell us if he is alive or not? I'm 25 now, and I won't be 25 much longer. When am I going to have children?"

The wives worry about what solitary confinement will do to their men (many of them believe their captive husbands have been kept in solitary confinement because some released prisoners have said they suffered that experience.)

"I want to scream out, how strong can a man be after four years of bad diet, isolation and torture. This is his fifth Christmas over there," says Janie Tschudy, whose 34-year-old husband, Navy Lt. William Michael Tschudy of Highland Park, Ill., was shot down with Capt. Denton.

Jane Marik, a 26-year-old brunette, declared: "I'd rather have my husband dead than a prisoner."

Mrs. Marik believes her husband, Navy Lt. Charles Marik, who has been missing 3½ years, is dead.

"He was such an active man. So gregarious. To sit alone in a room all those years. I'd rather have him dead than go through all that torture. I know what it could do to him."

Louise Brady, her straight dark hair cropped short, sat on the edge of her chair and answered in a steadfast manner, when asked how long she had been married.

"Today's our 16th wedding anniversary."

That last anniversary they shared together was their 14th. Cmdr. A. C. Brady, whose father is a retired admiral, was shot down in January, 1967.

He was listed as missing in action until 1968, when a friend in a foreign country said he saw a picture of the commander among a group of prisoners. The picture was taken by a Japanese photographer.

This picture is Mrs. Brady's hope for believing her husband is alive. She's never heard from him, nor has Hanoi released his name on any prisoner list.

Airlines Buy Liquor Permits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—All major airlines serving Ohio are complying with a new law requiring them to obtain liquor licenses and pay the state's markup on alcoholic beverages sold on flights leaving the state.

Revenue from the 10-cent assessment on the miniature 1.6 ounce liquor bottles sold on the flights has totaled about $50,000 in the first nine months of the year, according to State Liquor Director Donald D. Cook.

The liquor tax, however, should not be confused with the state-imposed excise tax which state officials say the airlines are contesting in court on grounds it is unconstitutional.

A Mississippi teen-ager coaxed 304 bushels of corn out of one acre of sandy loam—a world record. To get such an outstanding crop he spread 25 wagonloads of manure on his plot.

POW Wives Break Silence After 3 Years

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)

Silent anguish is the common bond shared by 27 women here. Their men are either prisoners of war, missing in action—or dead. Many don't know which.

They have stayed on in this tiny town, where the Atlantic Ocean laps the shore and training jets zoom overhead, comforting and sustaining each other. They say their husbands are "the forgotten men" of the Vietnam war.

The 27 wives are only a fraction of the nearly 1,400 women in this country with a similar fate. Up until recently they have not spoken up, they've been afraid to.

Afraid of what enemy forces in Vietnam would do to their husbands—if they are alive.

Why are they speaking out now?

"Time is running out," said attractive blonde, gray-eyed Mrs. James Mulligan, the mother of six sons.

"My husband (a navy commander of Lawrence, Mass.) has been a prisoner four and a half years now... all those years of imprisonment. What harm can be done now?" she asked.

"We've been very quiet up until now," said Mrs. Jeremiah A. Denton, a Southerner of cameo-like beauty. "We've gone through diplomatic channels. We've written letters. Yule Tree For Police

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Christmas tree stands by the District 7 police station, symbolizing not only holiday feelings but also close year-round relations among the community police, merchants and youngsters.

The 10-foot high tree, a novelty to police stations, according to Patrolman Eugene Simpkins of District 7, was donated, as were lights for it, by merchants in the racially mixed Walnut Hills section.

"Kids in grade schools in the district put up the ornaments and decorated it," said Simpkins, the man who is responsible for the project.

Simpkins and Patrolman Ron Camden and other men at the district work very closely with the Youth Group, set up to promote better relations between the police and community youngsters and to provide them

See Little Cooling Off Of Inflation During Coming Year

By STERLING GREEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The new year will bring continued with extra activities.

In October, Simpkins and other policemen took about 30 of the youngsters on a campout at a farm in suburban Colerain Township. Police and merchants also work with the youths on projects to help them earn extra money.

inflation, a trillion-dollar rate, of national output, and a chance—probably less than a 50-50 risk—of a mild and brief recession. The "standard forecast," meaning the consensus of Washington economists, is that consumer prices will rise 4 per cent in 1970, after a 5.7 per cent climb in 1968, steepest since the Korean War.

This raises the prospect, not a unique one, of a simultaneous inflation and recession. But most experts doubt that the anticipated slowdown will be deep enough to deserve the term "recession."

In fact, some recent indicators shook the confidence of administration advisers in their own forecasts of a slowdown. The November drop in the unemployment rate to 3.4 per cent, almost down to the post-Korea low, suggested that many businessmen were ignoring President Nixon's advice to "bet on cooling of the economy."

On the contrary, the latest official survey of plant and equipment spending plans of U.S. corporations—an 11 per cent rise in 1970, on top of the 11 per cent in 1969—looked like a business wager on more inflation.

In any case, the gross national product, or GNP, is expected to climb without interruption to an all-year total of $985 billion or more. This would be a rise of $53 billion, or 5.5 per cent, over the 1969 dollar value of all goods and services produced.

About next November, the rate of U.S. production, as measured by GNP, will reach and surpass $1 trillion a year.

But the GNP is a deceptive indicator. It measures output in terms of dollar value; therefore, in the recent months of rapidly inflating prices, it has become more a yardstick of inflation than of production.

Real output may be going downhill in first-half 1970, or showing a zero increase, while the inflated GNP is going up. The widely accepted definition of a recession is a decline in the "real" GNP—the production total with price boosts squeezed out—lasting two or more quarters.

If the decline is not very deep, it could be a recession mostly in a technical sense, without the spiraling downward trend of business and steeply rising unemployment which marked the recession of 1960.

And if there is a 1970 recession it will be of this mild and relatively short-lived kind, most government and industry economists in Washington predict.

The standard forecast, in fact, calls for zero increase in "real" GNP in the first half of the year, followed by enough pickup to provide an all-year expansion of real output of 1.5 to 2 per cent.

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy is one of the few administration figures who admits the possibility of an actual dip. He has predicted a decline in real output that "would continue for some time." But he wouldn't call it a recession.

Some officials privately predict that joblessness will rise to 4 1/2 to 5 per cent of the civilian labor force. The rate has averaged below 4 per cent for four years.

But the 1969 unemployment figures fluctuated disconcertingly enough to raise doubts whether the business slowdown, whose arrival in the fall was happily proclaimed by administration officials, was more than a brief jiggling of the indicators. The rate rose from 3.3 per cent in January and February to 4 per cent in September; it dropped to 3.9 in October, then took a sudden drop in November to 3.4 per cent.

There was no doubt, however, that the boom—eight years old, a record-breaker for duration and economic gains—was in a softening phase, though inflation masked the slowdown.

The stock market's appraisal of the outlook was painfully visible. Prices hit the boggy in the fall; the "magic 800" point on the Dow Jones index of industrial shares, supposedly a technical rallying point, failed to hold the skid; the market went right down through it.

Partly this was a reaction to repeated and firm White House warnings that the administration planned to keep the anti-inflation brakes pulled tight until the price spiral was clearly slowed. Partly it was a reaction to declining indicators. New car sales were off 6.5 per cent from a year earlier; retail sales generally were sluggish. Housing starts sagged in October to an annual rate of 1.3 million, from 1.55 million in 1968.

Viet Soldiers Train At U.S. Air Bases

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Some 4,200 Vietnamese enlisted men and officers, compared to 465 last year, will be trained at the 16 bases of the U.S. Air Force Air Training Command during fiscal 1970 a spokesman says.

The figure includes 4,000 men who will take technical courses in such fields as electronics, the ATC headquarters spokesman said.

Only about 400 took technical training last year at the 16 bases, which stretch from Georgia to California.

About 200 Vietnamese officers will take pilot training this fiscal year, compared to some 65 during fiscal 1969 which ended June 30, the spokesman said.

The pilots are all officers and undergo the same training as U.S. students at the various bases. Most of the technical courses are for enlisted men.

All first must go to the Lackland Air Force Base Language School here to familiarize themselves with the English language and particularly technical terms relating to their training.

Safeguarding Family's Financial Future Is Must

Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper
By JERRY KLEIN

There may be something sweetly amusing about the way your wife simply cannot seem to keep her checkbook balanced, tally her household bills or pay the rent promptly.

But suppose you weren't around to jump in all the time and set things straight? How would she get along without you?

These questions are worth pondering because the chances are that she will have to get along without you — some day. The hardheaded fact is that out of any 10 married couples, seven husbands will die before their wives. And another unhappy fact is that within a year after their deaths, many of their widows will be in serious financial trouble.

This will be due not so often to the wife's being left with inadequate resources as her being unable to handle them properly.

Now is the time to teach your wife how to bear the responsibilities she will inherit when and if she becomes your widow. Now is the time, even if the mortality tables say you've probably got many years ahead, because the younger a widow is, the more years of difficulty she faces without the help of a husband.

Right now, while you're together, build interests outside yourselves, too — friendships and habits that will endure into the future. Your home may be the natural center of interest today, but church groups, welfare work, card clubs and hobbies will help to keep life worth living when tomorrow comes.

Give your wife a clear picture, to start with, of just what your business and financial standing is: salary, insurance, savings, checking accounts, real estate, securities, etc.

Get in touch with your regional Social Security office, too, so your wife will know just about how much she will be entitled to receive every month should you be gone.

The bulk of your savings may well be frozen until the tax collectors get around to releasing your estate. So provide some ready source of cash on which your wife can get along until your insurance policy is paid off or your will is probated.

Decide now whether it will be better for her to collect your insurance in one lump sum or in small, monthly installments. The latter can assure your widow of an income that, however small, she can never outlive even if she gets older than Mrs. Methuselah presumably was.

Prepare your will with the aid of a lawyer and discuss its contents with your wife so that your wishes will be clear and there will be no delay in carrying them out. If you don't want to burden your wife with the job of seeing that your will is executed, appoint a trusted friend to handle the job.

Even if you are in fairly high income brackets, there is the distinct possibility that your widow some day may have to earn some money to supplement what she has left. So encourage her to keep in practice on whatever money-earning capabilities she has.

It is certainly far wiser to arrange things now. Then you can both relax and, together, go confidently forward into as many happy years as God may grant.

John Howard Jumps In Race For Congress

CINCINNATI (AP) — John Howard, who has never run for a political office, jumped into the 1st District Congressional race Sunday and took a swipe at City Councilman John Keating.

Howard, public relations director for the local Democratic party, announced at an informal news conference his candidacy for nomination to the seat held by Robert Taft Jr. who has declared his candidacy for the U.S. senate.

"Campaign expenditures will be an issue, I think," Howard said. "I think it's criminal that Mr. Keating spends $70,000 for a Cincinnati Council seat. I also think that there will be no issues which I can take up with him because he is very well known for saying nothing."

Keating is seeking the Republican nomination for the same seat.

MIKE ALLEN

JEAN BARTHEN

LESLIE ZIMMERMAN

JAY WRITSEL

Mike Allen, 17, resides at Route 1, Orient, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Allen.

Mike participates in football, Varsity "W", Drama Club (he is the male lead in "Annie Get Your Gun") to be given Jan. 16), and represents the Senior Class on Student Council. Mike was a commended student on the National Merit Test and will be listed in Merit Publishing Company's 1970 edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Some of the things Mike enjoys are pizza, short skirts on good legs and sideburns. His dislikes include two-faced people, onions and pickles. Asked what he thought of being a senior, Mike replied, "It's better than being a freshman!"

After graduation, Mike plans to attend Ohio State and major in business personnel.

Jean Barthen, 17, lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barthen at Route 1, Orient.

Jean is a member of the FBLA and NHS at Westfall. She also serves as a secretary to Mr. Ewing.

Jean lists donkeyball, Vo-Ag, Holsteins, good novels and typing among the things she likes. She doesn't particularly enjoy people who are in love with themselves and teachers who make you work all period.

Jean finds that there is always something different to do each day and she's always busy with something.

Jean's plans to attend business school are undecided, but she would like to acquire a secretarial position.

New Ski Club Organized At Westfall

The purpose of the Ski Club is simply to ski. Sixty-four students attending last meeting indicate that there is a lot of interest.

At the next meeting each member will be asked to take a statement home to be signed by parents acknowledging that neither the school, faculty sponsors, nor parent-drivers will be held responsible for any accidents that might occur during a ski trip. Each student must return this signed statement before he will be allowed to go on a trip with the Ski Club.

A word about safety to worried parents — skiing has a reputation for being dangerous which comes mostly from the days of the old "Bear Trap" bindings which the boot was actually bolted to the ski. When a skier had a hard fall either his ski or leg had to break, which ever was the weaker. Today it is illegal to use such bindings.

Modern bindings release the foot during a fall and the only effect is the skier's being buried in a heap of soft snow. This saves a considerable number of skis as well as legs. Statistics have shown that skiing is now much safer than bicycle-riding.

The Club hopes to ski as a group Jan. 17 and 31 and Feb. 14.

Three of Ohio's best ski resorts are located within 80 miles of Westfall: Clear Fork, Bellville; Snow Trails, Mansfield and at Valley High, Bellefontain.

It is suggested that students pack their lunches, although meals can be eaten at the lodge, but the lunchrooms are crowded.

Volunteer adult drivers are needed to drive from Westfall School to the ski areas.

Cheerleaders Chosen For School Year

Varsity Cheerleaders for the '69-70 sports season are: Connie Lett, captain; Janne Reynolds, Nancy Keller, Bonnie Long, Vicki Dennis and Brenda Winner.

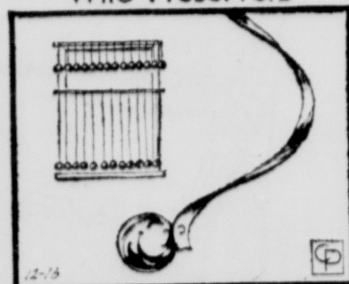

This past summer the squad attended a cheerleader camp at The University of Kentucky at Lexington. The camp lasted five days and during that time, the girls learned many new techniques for cheers and skits.

They consider it a very worthwhile experience and would like to thank the Westfall Booster Club and Athletic Association for making it possible.

Early in October the student body picked new Junior Varsity and Freshman cheerleaders for the '69-70 season. Jr. Varsity are: Marilyn Keller, captain; Kim Long, Becky Beauman, Lu Ann Gifford, Janelle Thompson, and Janet Schleich. Freshman are: Karen Fausnaugh, captain; Cindy Selby, Stephanie Neff, and Pam Williams.

On Nov. 15 a cheerleading clinic was held for Westfall's Junior High cheerleaders. They were instructed in cheers, new techniques, skits and how to look and behave as a good cheerleader. The cheering squad is seeking everyone's support to help cheer the boys on to victory.

Kentucky Wins Tourney; Defeats Duke In 98-76 Tilt

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kentucky might be the No. 1 college basketball team in the country but the Wildcats fall short as far as being a top-ranked host.

The Wildcats treated their guests rudely for the 12th time in 17 years, winning the Kentucky Invitational Saturday night with a 98-76 victory over Duke in the final.

It was also the fifth straight time Adolph Rupp's cagers had taken their own tournament in the friendly confines of Memorial Coliseum which is nestled on the Kentucky campus among the bluegrass of Lexington, Ky.

Kentucky, with six straight victories, had beaten Navy, 73-59 in Friday's first round.

In the biggest upset of the night, Baylor knocked No. 3 New Mexico State from the ranks of the unbeaten, 87-73. The Aggies had won eight straight. Villanova, No. 9, also lost, dropping a 59-55 decision to Pennsylvania.

UCLA, No. 2, fourth-ranked Davidson and No. 5 South Carolina were idle while Notre Dame, No. 6, got by Indiana 89-88. No. 7 North Carolina pasted Tulane 96-87. Tennessee, No. 8, trimmed LaSalle 55-47 and undefeated Ohio U., beat Ball State 92-81, for six in a row.

As for scoring, Pistol Pete Maravich of Louisiana State is making it no contest. Maravich tossed in 49 points in leading his mates to an 111-103 victory over Clemson and has scored 292 points in six games.

Saturday night Pete sparked LSU, leading only 52-51 at the half, to its fifth victory in six starts and at one point Maravich either scored or assisted on 24 straight points.

Dan Issel dropped in a basket, breaking a 47-47 tie which sent Kentucky to its rout of Duke. Issel finished with 20 points while the tourneys most valuable player Wildcat Bob McGowan chipped in with 25.

Baylor, which lost to New Mexico State earlier in the year 102-83 at Las Cruces, turned the tables in what Coach Bill McNeefee called "Our greatest victory" and said his Bear players were "still on Cloud 9".

"We beat them with a switching man-to-man and zone defense and by hitting 55 per cent of our shots to their 37 per cent," McNeefee said. Bill Chatmon led the 5-2 Bears with 26

Lamonica Leads Raiders Over Houston

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Six touchdowns passes by Dar-yle Lamonica led the explosive Oakland Raiders to a 56-7 rout of the Houston Oilers Sunday and into the American Football League's championship game.

Meanwhile the National Football League tuned up for its own playoffs with a full eight-game schedule. The four division winners were already decided and three of them—Minnesota, Los Angeles and Cleveland—went down to defeat while the fourth, Dallas, turned back the Washington Redskins 20-10.

The Atlanta Falcons ended the Vikings' near-record 12-game winning streak 10-3, the Baltimore Colts avenged an opening game setback with a 13-7 triumph over the Rams and the New York Giants beat Cleveland 27-14 on two fourth-period touchdowns.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Bears lost to Detroit 20-3 and concluded their worst season ever at 1-13, Green Bay battered St. Louis 45-28 as Don Horn passed for five scores, New Orleans edged Pittsburgh 27-24 on a touchdown in the final minute and San Francisco scored in the late going to nip Philadelphia 14-13.

Oakland ripped off four touchdowns in a space of four minutes and 22 seconds of the first period and went on to hand the Oilers the worst defeat in their history.

Lamonica, who completed 13 of 17 passes for 276 yards, opened the scoring with a 13-yarder to Fred Biletnikoff. George Atkinson raced 57 yards with an interception and Lamonica passed 24 yards to Rod Sherman and 31 to Biletnikoff as the Raiders surged to a 28-0 lead in the first eight minutes.

A 60-yard bomb from Lamonica to Charlie Smith in the second period made it 35-0 and the AFL's all-star quarterback concluded his day's work by firing 23 yards to Sherman and three to Billy Cannon for third-period touchdowns before giving way to George Blanda. Trailing 49-0, Houston finally scored on an eight-yard toss from Pete Beathard to Alvin Reed but Oakland's Marv Hubbard got that back with a four-yard run.

Minnesota, trying to match the NFL's one-season winning streak of 13 set by the 1934 Bears, led Atlanta 3-0 on a 19-yard field goal by Fred Cox. But with 25 seconds left in the first half, John Zook shook quarterback Gary Cuozzo loose from the ball and the other defensive end, Claude Humphrey, lunged it 24 yards for the game's only touchdown.

The Vikings finished 12-2 and the Falcons 6-8, best record in their three-year history. Despite their victory over Los Angeles, the Colts finished with an 8-5-1 mark, their worst since 1963. But Johnny Unitas looked like his old self, completing 19 of 33 passes for 260 yards.

The Rams, who lost their last three games after winning 11 in a row, face the Vikings for the NFL's Western Conference crown next Saturday in Minneapolis.

Joe Morrison caught a one-yard pass from Fran Tarkenton and then plunged over from the two for both late New York touchdowns as the Giants stopped Cleveland. Tarkenton also passed a yard to Ernie Koy for a score and Pete Gogolak kicked two field goals.

Calvin Hill carried 18 times for 73 yards, including a six-yard touchdown, in the Cowboys' triumph over Washington. The first-year man from Yale finished the regular season with 942 yards.

The Skins' 7-5-2 mark was their first winning season since 1955 and reminiscent of the 7-5 record turned in by Vince Lombardi's first Green Bay team.

Horn, the apparent successor to Bart Starr, completed 22 of 31 passes for 410 yards, a Packer record, against the Cardinals. His five scoring passes tied another team record. Horn connected with Boyd Dowler on TD losses of seven and 43 yards, hit Travis Williams for 12 and fired 34 and 10 yards to Carroll Dale.

Larry Wilson scampered 88 yards with a fumble for one St. Louis score and John Gilliam returned a kickoff 100 yards for another.

The Lions turned two interceptions into touchdowns and Errol Mann kicked two field goals to finish 9-4-1, their best record since 1962 and good for third place over-all in the Western Conference. The Bears' only bright spot was Gale Sayers, who wound up with 1,032 yards rushing.

Andy Livingston's three-yard touchdown run with 56 seconds left saddled Pittsburgh with its 13th consecutive defeat and enabled the Saints to push past Philadelphia into third place in the Capitol Division. Earl Gross scored three times for the Steelers.

San Francisco trailed the Eagles 13-0 before John Brodie replaced the ineffective Steve Spurrier in the third period and led the comeback. After Doug Cunningham's one-yard plunge made it 13-7, Brodie passed 22 yards to Bob Windsor with 3 1/2 minutes left and Momcilo Gavrilic booted the decisive extra point.

The Big A, held to a pro career low of 13 points, controlled the boards with 21 rebounds as the Milwaukee Bucks downed Phoenix 118-111 Sunday night, matching the club record of six consecutive victories set last season, the Bucks' first in the National Basketball Association.

Hawkins was high point man with 28, but it wasn't enough to match the board work of Alcindor and the shooting of Flynn Robinson and Len Chappell, who scored 25 and 24 respectively for the Bucks.

In other NBA games, Atlanta beat Chicago 118-111, Los Angeles defeated Philadelphia 133-117 and Seattle whipped San Diego 112-96.

Lou Hudson scored 31 points and Bill Bridges 27 as Atlanta opened a 5 1/2-game lead over Chicago in the NBA's Western Division. Jim Davis added 18 points and a career high 22 rebounds. Chet Walker paced the Bulls with 24 points.

Los Angeles used good foul shooting—39 of 46—and a fine second-period performance by Mel Counts to beat Philadelphia and stop a five-game losing streak.

Counts scored 13 points in the second quarter as the Lakers took a 62-50 halftime lead. They wrapped it up by scoring the first seven points of the third period. Jerry West paced the winners with 33 points and Elgin Baylor added 28 while Billy Cunningham and Darrell Imhoff split 48 for the 76ers.

Ten third-quarter points by Tom Meschery and 10 in the fourth period by Barry Clemens sparked Seattle past San Diego. Meschery and Lucius Allen scored 18 apiece for the Sonics while Elvin Hayes had 27 and Bernie Williams 20 for the losers.

Saturday night, New York walloped Baltimore 128-91, Detroit edged Phoenix 114-113, Atlanta drubbed Boston 122-106, San Diego downed Cincinnati 126-111 and Philadelphia turned back San Francisco 122-109.

Laurelville Wildcats Hit Century Mark At BUHS

The streaking Laurelville Wildcats rolled to their eighth victory Saturday, defeating Berne Union, 100-58 in the Rockets own balliwick.

The win gives the Wildcats an 8-2 record while Berne Union stands 1-7 for the season.

Saturday night Laurelville coach Jim Arnold got a 42-point effort with seven of his cagers hitting in double figures.

"It was the best team effort of the year," Arnold said. "The boys really moved the ball well and rebounded well."

LAURELVILLE was credited with 57 rebounds while the Rockets had 35. Mike Eveland and Mike Shaw had 12 rebounds each. Dave Thompson and Marty Unger 10 each.

Steve McCabe and Mike Shaw shared scoring laurels in the game with 16 markers. Unger tallied 15, Mike Eveland 14. Dave Thompson, Steve Smith and Rick Fast 10 each.

Laurelville was never behind in the tilt, leading 27-11 at the LAURELVILLE

Rangers Bash Oakland, Montreal
By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
The New York Rangers today began their sixth week on top of the National Hockey League's East Division and if Boston and Montreal wait around for the West Division to do something about that situation they could wind up waiting forever.

The Rangers continued their seeming invincibility against their expansionist cousins from the West Sunday night, knocking off Oakland 3-1 and padding their lead to four points when Montreal trimmed Boston 5-2.

Mickey Lohich set a Detroit Tiger record by striking out 16 batters in a game on two occasions in 1969.

OU Bobcats Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"We just managed to have enough spurts to stay in control," said Ohio University Coach Jim Snyder, obviously displeased with the Bobcats' lackluster 92-81 basketball victory over Butler.

"I guess we were due for a game like this," Snyder said. "Our defense was poor and we tried to win it the easy way."

The Bobcats, however, leaped to a 12 point lead in the first five minutes of play and stayed ahead all the way in Saturday's game.

Ohio, paced by John Canine's 21 points, led 15-3 after five minutes and had a 44-32 advantage at the half.

It was the sixth straight victory for the tenth-ranked Bobcats and equals a school record set by the 1963-64 team which won the Mid-American Conference championship.

Ohio State, with a 96-68 victory over Alabama, faces Tulane tonight in New Orleans.

Tulane bowed to North Carolina 96-87 and meets the Buckeyes with a 4-6 record.

Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor was not impressed with Alabama or his own team's performance. "We didn't play very well, particularly the first half," he said. "but it was nice to have a game like that for a change where we could let a lot of kids (all 13 travelers) play."

Vikings Lose To Taller Trace Team, 80-73

Teays Valley couldn't cope with the taller Panthers and they lost a decision to Miami Trace 80-73 Saturday night on the Panthers home court.

Steve Bihl was the big man for Miami as he garnered 28 points to lead both teams in scoring. He was especially tough under the boards and picked up points with taps and layups.

Tom Gifford added 19 markers for the Panthers. Marty Jones had 14, Dave Dunn 12 and Steve Huffman had seven to complete the scoring.

Dale Lambert and Wayne Brown led the Vikings with 20 points apiece while Larry Dixon contributed 15, Bob Tucker and John Glick each had eight and Ed McCord added two.

THE Panthers were cold at the charity stripe as they only made 12 of 21 for 57 per cent but made up from the field as they netted 34 of 70 for 49 per cent.

The Vikings dropped 15 of 29 from the foul line for 75 per cent and hit on 28 of 70 from the hardwood for a 40 per cent average.

Trace pulled down 40 rebounds while Teays Valley gathered in 32-misses. On turnovers the Panthers had 12 while the Vikings were guilty nine times.

The Panthers led by five at the end of the first period, and maintained the five point lead at halftime. They stretched the lead to six at the third period ended and finally won by seven.

Teays Valley pulled into a one point lead midway through the third quarter but Trace countered with three straight buckets to put the game out of reach.

Teays Valley is now 7-3 on the season and will be idle until January 9 when they travel to Dublin to encounter the Shamrocks in a Metropolitan League battle.

Caps Beat Los Angeles In ABA Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Washington Caps had the right Card, the Miami Floridians had an ace in the hole, the Kentucky Colonels had two of a kind and they all paid off with American Basketball Association victories Sunday night.

Frank Card's 24 points led Washington past Los Angeles 120-108 and enabled the Caps to take a one-game lead over the Stars in the race for second place in the ABA's Western Division.

Mike Barrett's three-point play at the start of the fourth quarter broke an 85-all tie and the Caps never trailed thereafter.

Elsewhere, Don Freeman, Miami's ace in the hole, set a team scoring record with 46 points in a 122-115 triumph over Carolina while Lou Dampier's two of a kind free throws with 26 seconds left gave Kentucky a 107-105 win over the New York Nets.

Freeman hit on 16 of 30 shots and added 14 points at the foul line to erase the Miami single-game record of 45 points he set a week ago. Teammate Erv Stagg had his best night as a pro with 29 points. Bob Verga paced the losers with 40.

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — William Sherman marched his team through Georgia more than 100 years ago and then said, "War is hell."

Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney watched his Cornhuskers march through Georgia 45-6 in the Sun Bowl Saturday, and remarked, "We jumped on them early."

Devaney's quote might not go down in history, but it did sum up the 1969 Sun Bowl game.

Nebraska jumped out to an 18-0 first quarter lead behind the record-breaking field goal kicking of Paul Rogers and then blew the game wide open with two touchdowns in the first five minutes of the second half.

Rogers, who was voted the game's most valuable player by sports writers kicked field goals of 50, 32, 42 and 37 yards to easily break the Sun Bowl record of two.

Chiefs Oust Jets From Bowl; Eye Strategy For Raiders

NEW YORK (AP) — Not even a half hour had elapsed after Kansas City's playoff victory ended the New York Jets' hopes of returning to the Super Bowl when the first bit of psychological warfare certain to surround the American Football League championship game began.

It began in the Chiefs' dressing room after their 13-6 triumph over the Jets Saturday when Coach Hank Stram was asked about the strategy he might employ against the Oakland Raiders in the AFL title game Jan. 4—still two weeks away.

The questioner asked pointedly if Stram might again disdain the pass as he did just a week earlier in a 10-6 loss to the Raiders.

"It's hard to tell," Stram said simply.

And so the questioner tried a different approach, asking if Stram might not open up with a more diversified attack.

"It's hard to tell," Stram said once more.

But it's really not. It's only that Stram is not about to divulge his plan. At the same time, he's not about to admit that the earlier loss to the Raiders, the Chiefs' fourth in five games over two seasons has had any psychological effect on his troops.

"What's happened in the past is history," Stram said sharply. "Pro football is a game of now."

Now is time for beginning preparations for the game against the Raiders, who qualified for the title game by defeating Houston 56-7 in the other half of the AFL playoffs, some 24 hours after the defending champion Jets were dethroned.

In that game, on a cold, raw day in windswept Shea Stadium, the Chiefs battered and bruised Jets quarterback Joe Namath, kept him from putting across a touchdown and left him feeling "like I was in a gang fight all by myself."

The gang he was fighting was the Chiefs, who made the two big plays that counted in the fourth quarter—diagnosing a Jets play to keep them from scoring a go-ahead touchdown and diagramming on the sidelines the play that led to the winning touchdown.

The diagnoser was Bobby Bell, the Chiefs all-league line-backer, who prevented a possible Jets touchdown. The Chiefs had a 6-3 edge at the time, with Jan Stenerud leading Jim Turner two field goals to one.

But an interference call on a Namath pass for George Sauer put the ball at the one yard line. Two plays gained just inches, so Namath called a play the Jets had worked on during the week—a fake handoff to Bill Mathis that was supposed to make Bell commit himself while Namath rolled right and hit Matt Snell with a flare pass.

"Bell was supposed to go for the fake to Mathis," Namath explained in the Jets dressing room. "But he didn't. He didn't go for the fake. He was out there with Snell, and he had no right being there."

Instead, Namath was chased out of bounds and Turner came on to kick a seven-yard field goal that tied it 6-6. And the way the teams were defending each other, it looked as if it might stay that way for awhile.

It did, but for just two plays. Then the diagrammer—Otis Taylor—made his presence felt.

After the ensuing kickoff, Chiefs quarterback Len Dawson went into the huddle and called a pass play flanker Taylor had traced just minutes before in the dirt on the sidelines.

What Taylor suggested was a play called the camouflage slot, "in which the receiver lines up to camouflage his movements between the guard and tackle, rather than in a normal slot formation between the tackle and tight end."

The same play had produced a touchdown the only other time the Chiefs used it—in an earlier 34-16 victory over the Jets.

Taylor came off the left side of the line, angled right, latched into the pass from Dawson and rambled some 20 yards after grabbing it, turning the play into a 61-yard gain that put the ball on the Jets' 19.

Dawson went back to the huddle and called for a pass to half back Mike Garrett, but as the play developed, Garrett was

Rams Started Season With 11 Wins

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The firing of George Allen as coach of the Los Angeles Rams on the day after Christmas, the emotional reaction of "we'll quit, too," from a dozen players and the eventual rehiring of Allen must be considered in any analysis of the 1969 Rams.

The Rams came out blazing and won 11 in a row before they ran into Minnesota, Dec. 7, and then the air went out of the balloon. It remains to be seen if Allen can rekindle the spark (he'll need it in Minnesota) in time for the big showdown with the Vikings in the snow country Saturday.

Deacon Jones, one of the men who backed Allen last winter, summed up the Rams' feelings after their upset loss, 20-13, to Minnesota, Dec. 7.

"It won't make any difference if there are 50 inches of snow on the ground," he said. "The loss may have been a blessing. We'll be ready emotionally next time. There is no way they're going to beat us twice."

Roman Gabriel, the man who must make the attack go, has said of Allen, "He has been for the players all the time. He got a lot of things just to make the players happy because that's what is important. You can't win without a happy team."

Some call the Rams a "just enough" team, meaning that they always keep a little in reserve. During their 11-game win streak they usually won each Sunday by about 10 points.

Of the four clubs in the National Football League players, the Rams are the only team that throws the ball more often than it runs. Opponents also have found it a little easier to throw against them than run although that Fearsome Foursome puts tremendous pressure on the passer.

Gabriel the Most Valuable Player in the NFL this season, is a 6-foot-4 220-pound strong boy who has the build to stand in there against the rush and unload the ball and the ability to pick up vital yardage on his own.

The performance of Gabriel depends on the success the offensive line has in standing off the Vikings' Purple Gang.

Charlie Cowan moved over from right tackle to left to make room for Bob Brown, the giant All-League tackle who was acquired from Philadelphia last summer. They are an outstanding pair of tackles.

If there is a crack in the line

it could be at right guard where Mike LaHood, a rookie from Wyoming who spent last year in the service, has taken over for Joe Scibelli, lost due to knee surgery. Scibelli was a team leader and his loss in the Nov. 2 Atlanta game was a bitter blow.

Although the Rams do go to the pass more than the run, their ground game has improved immeasurably by the addition of rookie Larry Smith, their No. 1 draft choice from Florida, and the comeback of Les Josephson from a torn Achilles tendon that put him out of action in 1968.

Gabriel's favorite targets are Jack Snow and Wendell Tucker, his wide receivers, and Smith coming out of the field. He also is partial to Billy Truax, his tight end, a touchdown threat.

The Rams usually are not spectacular on offense but don't make many mistakes and like to shift to a field goal try by Bruce Gossett when a defense stiffens. At times Gabriel puts Smith in the slot to get four receivers and keeps only Josephson back to help with the pass blocking.

The Fearsome Foursome of old has changed personnel but Deacon Jones and Merlin Olsen remain on the left side of that strong defensive line. Rosey Grier is long gone and Roger Brown, his successor, has been in and out due to injuries.

Coy Bacon, a second year man, is the right tackle and Diron Talbert, a third year man, is the right end.

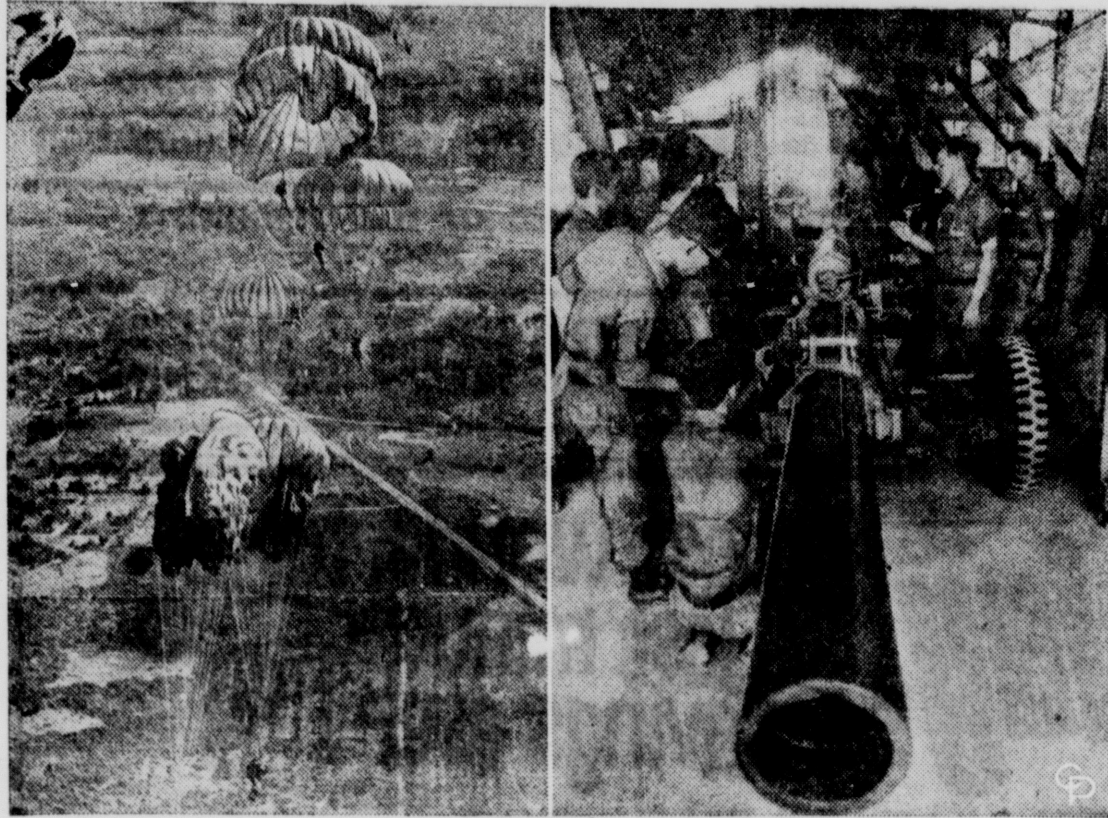

Mexie Baughan, the former Philadelphia Eagle, calls the defensive signals as right linebacker. Jack Pardee still is going strong at the left side and Doug Woodlief moved into the middle linebacker job and took over after Myron Pottios was hurt in an auto accident. Woodlief has been extra active in pass coverage.

Eddie Meador, the 32-year-old All-League free safety, is the top man in the Rams' deep defense. He also holds for Gossett on field goals and is not beyond picking up the ball and running for a first down.

Clancy Williams is the left cornerback but Allen has made a change at the right side. Jim Nettles, former Eagle, has taken over for Ron Smith, who has been playing strong safety since Richie Petitbon, ex-Chicago Bear, was sidelined by a kidney ailment. Petitbon probably will be back for the Vikings but Nettles may stay on the corner.

Pet Studstill, the veteran wide receiver is a spare at that job but the regular punter averaging over 40 yards a kick.

Draft Chief Heber Minton A Suicide

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Selective Service Director Heber L. Minton, who shot and killed himself Saturday, will be buried Wednesday at Buena Vista, Ohio, his home town.

Minton was found dead in the garage of his Columbus home with a bullet wound in the head and a .32 caliber pistol nearby. A suicide note was discovered but authorities refused to divulge its content.

Minton, 49, became director of the Ohio Selective Service in November of 1966.

Prior to that he served as assistant adjutant general of the Ohio National Guard. He accepted a demotion in rank from general to colonel when he took over the Selective Service job.

During World War II, Minton was wounded twice while serving with the 101st Airborne Division at Normandy and Holland.

Englishmen Defend Clubs Against Female Invasion

By JOSEPH WHITT

LONDON — Englishmen are defending their clubs against a threatened invasion by women.

"Women should not be kept out of men's clubs," said a leading member of the National Union of Townswomen's Guilds, a feminist organization. "We shouldn't be excluded because of our sex."

At Boodles', a famous London men's club, a member who wished to be identified only as Sir John said, "Our clubs have survived suppression by kings and Puritans and they'll survive feminine resentment."

Sir John leaned back in his large leather armchair glanced around the hushed lounge, then sipped his port.

"We have a long history. Our clubs started in the universities during the 17th century, when students met in their rooms to talk — and drink a new beverage called coffee."

"The students were men, not girls. Drinking coffee became fashionable. Coffee houses sprang up. They were ostensibly open to all, but the men soon formed cliques and took them over. They drew up rules and admitted members by election."

"Thus the men's clubs were born. White's, founded in 1730, is the oldest in existence. Entry to it wasn't easy. Members could blackball applicants. As a result of blackballing at White's, a new club — Brooks's in Pall Mall — was founded 1764. No women could be passed through that blackballing system."

More men's clubs were founded during the 18th and 19th centuries. They did not spread through London, but gathered in St. James's Street, Piccadilly and Pall Mall.

Most of the clubs were gambling centers. Some became political strongholds. But eventually the clubs settled down to become what they are today — social centers of quiet, learning and, above all, respectability.

Great architects were commissioned to build fine clubhouses, many of which resembled the country mansions of the wealthy. They were filled with treasures, wine cellars and works of art.

"And, above all, they had creature comforts for men," Sir John said. "The Royal Automobile Club, for example, offers a miniature rifle range, Turkish baths, squash courts, a Louis XV restaurant and a large swimming pool in Roman style."

"Clubs differ, of course. But in one respect they're alike — they're for men only."

Christmas In France Is Tradition, Innovation

By STEVE LIBBY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

Christmas in France always has primarily been a religious holiday, celebrated with age-old traditions and customs. It's still true in the tiny towns and villages of the provinces but, in recent years, Paris and other major French cities have changed the look of Christmas. The holiday has been modernized in some respects, more contemporary in concept.

More and more Paris shops have put in elaborate windows to herald the Christmas season with tinsel, lights, trees and gift suggestions. Huge lighted decorations are now placed on the bridges across the Seine, electric stars twinkle over the Champs-Elysees sidewalks and a filigree of latticework surrounds the Colonne Vendome. Local newspapers publish lists of which streets are decorated, and how; but even in Paris the emphasis is on Christmas spirit and not commercialism.

Across France, as elsewhere in the world, there is stress on the children, who put out their shoes in the hope that Pere Noel will fill them to overflowing with candy and toys.

The Christmas reveillon is the traditional sumptuous feast and party which adults begin after midnight mass and which frequently continue until dawn. In Paris reveillon is increasingly celebrated in restaurants. Especially in the provinces, the home continues to be an important place for the reveillon.

Featured are regional dishes such as pates de foie gras, oysters with a dry Pouilly-Fuisse white wine from Burgundy, Breton buckwheat cakes with sour cream, or traditional Auvergne roasted chestnuts with milk or wine.

In some homes the reveillon feast includes 13 desserts, one to represent each of the apostles and Christ. Although this custom may be diminishing, the buche de Noel (Yule log) is a symbol of the holiday as is the North American wreath. In rural areas the old custom of bringing a log from the forest and burning it on Christmas Eve continues. But all over France there is another buche de Noel — a log-shaped cream cake with a bark-like chocolate coating and fruit or fruit-colored icing to represent the flames.

At Valberg, in the Alpes-Maritimes, the many skiers join the torchlight procession side by side with the villagers. Many towns and Marseille is one of them, have a live tableau dramatically portraying the birth of Christ. It is not rare that these pastorales, as they are called, mix some slapstick and local humor with the ancient story.

The Christmas creche is to be found everywhere in the provinces, with clay figurines called santons (little saints). Some are used as permanent church decorations.

Although the Christmas tree is increasing in popularity, the traditional Christmas plants of France are chrysanthemums and Christmas roses.

The ancient and rural Christmas traditions may also be observed in Paris. There is nothing more reminiscent of the medieval spirit than to hear a mass in Notre Dame or in a n e i e n t St-Germain-des-Prés with its colorful Byzantine columns.

Italy Weathers Labor Fight, But Storms Are Seen Ahead

ROME (AP) — Italy appeared today to have weathered four months of labor rebellion topped off by a string of terrorist bombings. But officials and commentators agree the nation has more stormy sailing ahead in 1970.

The strike-filled autumn of labor unrest strained the economy. Often there were street demonstrations and violence. Bombings that caused 14 deaths and more than 100 wounded in Milan and Rome Dec. 12 stirred fears of revolution or coup d'etat.

Then a wage agreement Sunday between the biggest striking labor group, the 1.2 million metal workers, and industrialists all but put an end to the "hot autumn." Relatively few labor disputes remain unresolved.

The bombings, in the words of the Milan daily Corriere della Sera, "could have exasperated the spiral of violence and beat to death already weakened republican and democratic institutions." Instead they aroused widespread horror, and Corriere said: "There is no doubt: The democratic system, as a whole, has withstood the test. There was no splitting of the country in two, as was awaited by the opposite extremes."

There has been no significant violence since the bombings, and Premier Mariano Rumor's Christian Democratic government is still in office.

Many have likened the situation in recent months to the atmosphere of desperation that preceded the rise of Mussolini's fascism in the 1920s. But the Italians now are better off financially, better educated and more worldly than they were then. There is no evidence that any of the present extremist cliques are backed by any significant organizations with power and money.

Although some think there is a possibility that rightists might try a takeover in reaction to leftist extremism, most knowledgeable Italians dismiss the idea.

Economically and politically, many difficulties lie ahead. Strikes by transport workers, and by farm and state employees will continue for a while. A 48-hour walkout halted buses and trams today.

Production losses have cut down the industrial growth, and increased labor costs and inflation threaten to damage the economy further in 1970.

The bureaucracy is growing, with more public money going into it than into investment.

The impasse between the Christian Democrats, Socialists and Republicans over revival of the center-left governing coalition threatens to go on indefinitely. The crucial issue—should the big Communist party share in government power—is unresolved.

Christmas wasn't Christmas until 1038. The word was first used by the English whose feast day were mass days. Thus Christ's birthday became "Christes Maesse" or "Christes-Messe."

Italy Weathers Labor Fight, But Storms Are Seen Ahead

ROME (AP) — Italy appeared today to have weathered four months of labor rebellion topped off by a string of terrorist bombings. But officials and commentators agree the nation has more stormy sailing ahead in 1970.

The strike-filled autumn of labor unrest strained the economy. Often there were street demonstrations and violence. Bombings that caused 14 deaths and more than 100 wounded in Milan and Rome Dec. 12 stirred fears of revolution or coup d'etat.

Then a wage agreement Sunday between the biggest striking labor group, the 1.2 million metal workers, and industrialists all but put an end to the "hot autumn." Relatively few labor disputes remain unresolved.

The bombings, in the words of the Milan daily Corriere della Sera, "could have exasperated

the spiral of violence and beat to death already weakened republican and democratic institutions." Instead they aroused widespread horror, and Corriere said: "There is no doubt: The democratic system, as a whole, has withstood the test. There was no splitting of the country in two, as was awaited by the opposite extremes."

There has been no significant violence since the bombings, and Premier Mariano Rumor's Christian Democratic government is still in office.

Many have likened the situation in recent months to the atmosphere of desperation that preceded the rise of Mussolini's fascism in the 1920s. But the Italians now are better off financially, better educated and more worldly than they were then. There is no evidence that any of the present extremist cliques are backed by any significant organizations with power and money.

Although some think there is a possibility that rightists might try a takeover in reaction to leftist extremism, most knowledgeable Italians dismiss the idea.

Economically and politically, many difficulties lie ahead. Strikes by transport workers, and by farm and state employees will continue for a while. A 48-hour walkout halted buses and trams today.

Production losses have cut down the industrial growth, and increased labor costs and inflation threaten to damage the economy further in 1970.

The bureaucracy is growing, with more public money going into it than into investment.

The impasse between the Christian Democrats, Socialists and Republicans over revival of the center-left governing coalition threatens to go on indefinitely. The crucial issue—should the big Communist party share in government power—is unresolved.

MISS GALATE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Galate Jr. (Ruth Sanders), 218 Sherwood Drive, are the parents of a 6-pound 15-ounce daughter born 8:23 p.m. Sunday in Berger Hospital.

Psychedelic pinks, yellows and oranges and geometric designs in black and white will rival the traditional Christmas colors in gift wrappings again this year, according to Norcross.

Still in abundance, however, will be the old favorites of polished foils, tinsel-frosted wraps and velvet flocked patterns in red, green, blue, silver and gold.
